

Last Year Saw Daly City Council Changes; 1967 to Be Highlighted By City Hall Move

By WILL THOMAS

Daly City, full of change at the end of '66, also will be full of movement in 1967.

The elevation of one man led to considerable movement last year, both horizontally and vertically.

It was called a merry-go-round piece of politics, when City Attorney Paul Hupf moved to municipal judge, Mayor-councilman Al Polonsky shifted to city legal advisor and West-moor High athletic specialist, Tony Giammona, became a councilman.

This year... more change, in the form of long-awaited movement from the drab, cramped Wellington Street quarters just off Mission Street, to a new, roomy, neo-classic, natural rock municipal showcase on Ninetieth Street, at Sullivan Avenue.

New equipment and furnishings, communications and carpets will join the old faces there in April. Formal dedication is due in May.

The new year is due to be a full one for Daly City government's other fronts, too.

Plans for construction this year of a 10-million gallon reservoir — the city's largest — have been completed.

Major street projects have been announced, including final work on the Southgate Avenue extension and reconstruction and widening of Washington and San Pedro Road, in addition to a large-scale repaving program.

Design and preparation of plans are nearing completion for the reconstruction and widening of San Fernando Way, and the city will attempt to gain

State Division of Highways completion of the Cabrillo Freeway, for which grading has been completed.

This will link the Junipero Serra freeways at Skyline Boulevard.

With development continuing in this area, groundbreaking for the vast Serramonte Shopping Center is expected this coming spring.

Just as 1967 is expected to be a banner year, both in terms of achievement and activity, last year was a busy one for Daly City.

For instance, the council adopted a new municipal code, culminating two year's work. For the first time since 1911, all city laws now are codified into a single, index volume.

Other major activities included:

Addition of more than 12,000 feet of water transmission lines to strengthen the city's water system.

Improvement and expansion of parks and recreation facilities.

Initiation of citywide beautification plan.

Installation of mercury vapor street lights to serve more areas.

Extension of Sullivan Avenue to Mary's Help Hospital, with future connection with Southgate Avenue planned.

Completion of the Westlake water pumping plant reservoir, at a cost of $218,000.

Application for federal and state financial assistance in undertaking a comprehensive general plan study for future city development patterns.

Addition of $25,000 in library materials.

Purchase of two new high-power fire engine pumps.

The "old year" was notable on other fronts, too—particularly the Jefferson Elementary District Board of Trustees.

Trustee Peter Galiano and other board members clashed over his legal representation of the California Teachers Association.

There was a question of alleged Galiano "conflict of interest" involved.

In the meantime, the district is being investigated by the (Please See Page 2, Column 5)

County Supervisor Changes

St. Clair Is Seated; Mrs. Fassler New Chairman of Board

By VIRGIL WILSON

Mrs. Jean Fassler of Pacifica has been elected chairman of the County Board of Supervisors — the first member of her sex to hold the office in the county's 111-year history.

As she took over the chairmanship Mrs. Fassler pledged "to endeavor to continue high quality government at the lowest possible cost" and said she would "strive to work in close harmony with our cities."

Mrs. Fassler, the outgoing chairman T. Louis Chess of San Mateo, and towering Bob St. Clair of football fame, were sworn into office by Superior Judge Frank B. Blum.

Mrs. Fassler and Chess were re-elected to new terms last June without opposition. St. Clair, a resident of Millbrae, was elected in November over the incumbent, Arolph C. Harrison. Harrison had been appointed in March to succeed Edward R. McDonald, who retired.

Supervisor James V. Fitzgerald of San Bruno was elected vice chairman, the position held by Mrs. Fassler in 1966.

St. Clair, 36, introduced his wife, Ann, and the oldest of his six children, Lynn, and said that the decision to move the family from Daly City, where he had been mayor for two terms, to the "sunshine" of Millbrae was made for the sake of the family and not for political purposes. The opportunity to run for McDonald's job developed after the move, he explained.

St. Clair thanked those who voted for him and added, "For those who didn't, I hope in the ensuing four years to build your confidence in me by my actions on the board."

Mrs. Fassler, 46-year-old grandmother of four, is only the second woman to serve on the county board. Mrs. Rosalie Brown served from 1920 to 1934, but was never elected chairman.

When Pacifica was incorporated in 1957, Mrs. Fassler, by virtue of having received the highest number of votes among candidates for the City Council, became the city's first mayor.

She was appointed to the county board in 1965 to succeed Joseph Verducci, who died before he could take office.

Among the honors she has received during her first two years as a supervisor were appointment to President Johnson's Citizens Advisory Committee on Recreation and Natural Beauty and to the Governor's Committee on the National Redwood Road.

Dedication Of Civic Center Set by D. C.

Daly City's newly elected Mayor Bernard J. Lycott announced that May 20 has been set for the dedication of the city's new $3 million city hall.

The ceremonies, special events, and open house are being planned by a joint committee of representatives of the Civic Center Corporation, the Chamber of Commerce and city officers.

The formal dedication — open house scheduled for 2 p.m. — is expected to be well attended and include many high-ranking county, state and federal officials.

Mayor Lycott noted that present construction progress indicates major work should be completed in March and detail finishing by the first of April. Most city offices are planning to occupy their new quarters during April.

Building construction was initiated in September of 1965 by the Guy F. Atkinson Company of South San Francisco. The structure was designed by Donald F. Haines-Zaven Tartarian & Associates of San Francisco.

Flower Shop Is Held Up, $623 Taken

A San Bruno flower shop was held up on New Year's Eve by two men who got away with $623 in cash register receipts.

Flowers by Silvestri at 452 West San Bruno Avenue was robbed at 6:30 p.m. Saturday by two men who threatened both Philip Silvestri and his wife Olga with a small, blue steel revolver.

According to the police report, the two men entered the shop and asked Silvestri to make a corsage. With the store empty of other customers, Silvestri went into the rear of the establishment to fill the order.

His wife was in the back office. When Silvestri returned with the corsage about eight minutes later, one of the suspects handed him a $10 bill. As Silvestri opened the cash register one of the men brandished a pistol and said, "It's a Stick-up." He then grabbed all the money in the register.

At that point Mrs. Silvestri stepped into the outer office to see what was transpiring. One of the suspects then took her purse which contained the receipts for the past two days. The two men then fled out the front door on foot. No escape vehicle was seen.

1st 1967 Baby At Mary's Help

The first 1967 baby born at Mary's Help Hospital in Daly City arrived at 7:57 a.m. Sunday, a spokesman of the maternity ward reported.

A 6-pound, 15-ounce boy, he is the second child of Mr. and Mrs. Robert John Castelli of San Francisco. The New Year's baby is named Gary John.

The Year Past

Pacifica Lost 'Institution,' Gained Ship

Pacificans last year lost an "institution" and considerable construction, but gained a hero and a ship.

All four happenings were treated as "big news" in the young Coastside community.

Only weeks before the turn of the new year, 9-year-old Pacifica — scenic bedroom community — lost its first city manager, Karl Baldwin, to the federal government and a Vietnam, while the federal government and a salvage company lost the USS George Johnson to Pacifica.

And the saga of Navy Lt. Dieter Dengler, whose return to the United States after a heroic escape from Communists in Laos was learned first by a Times Reporter, was on everyone's tongue in Pacifica, where he and a brother lived.

There was a fourth significant happening that created sizeable concern: the drop in new home construction funding, which brought about a considerable reduction in Pacifica's building progress.

When Karl Baldwin left Pacifica in December for a government job involving municipal administration in Vietnam, Pacifica lost the man to whom fell the first problems of a new town.

For it was for Baldwin and his first staff who shouldered the first planning required to mold nearly a half-dozen small, separate self-oriented communities, into a single, widely-spread but same-thinking incorporated city.

Since 1957 Baldwin had been the manager, guiding and guided by his elected councilmen.

But Baldwin is remembered. The bespectacled administrator was well liked; was respected for the role he played well in shaping the new Pacifica.

A successor, to be named in (Please See Page 2, Column 3)

Land Deal Is Chided In Pacifica

A potential municipal dealing with the Laguna Salada District came under fire in Pacifica last week.

That was the $49,500 and $47,500 appraisals on the school property adjacent to the present city hall where the city hopes to build a new police complex.

Councilman Rick Wallace and two real estate people in the audience made no secret of their thinking the city had been slighted in the appraisal.

A more satisfactory figure of $45,000 was mentioned at the council table. The estimate of the city was $41,450.

Those who consider the appraisals too high said they (Please See Page 2, Column 3)

Economic Status vs. Reading

A direct relationship between the reading ability of children and the economic status of their parents is pointed up in a study done by County Superintendent of Schools James R. Tormey.

The poorer the family, the study shows, the more likely their children will score low in reading achievement.

And that leads to other complications. There is adequate research to indicate, Tormey says, that:

—Pupils who have severe reading difficulties subsequently develop trouble with many other subjects.

—Students with severe reading retardation develop a high percentage of truancy and, ultimately, dropouts.

—Such students (poor reading — truancy — dropouts) produce a high percentage of both juvenile delinquency and later adult acts leading to arrest and incarceration. They also tend to produce an abnormal percentage of families dependent on welfare or other forms of relief or charity.

A state-wide study shows that, in San Mateo County, in the four (Please See Page 2, Column 4)

Flammable Dolls Are Turning Up

Those little dolls from England and Poland found to be highly flammable, this week continue to turn up at police and fire departments as anxious parents examine their children's toys and hustle the dolls out of the house.

The dolls were found to be highly flammable and potentially dangerous this week by Sheriff's Criminalist Paul Dougherty and parents have been asked that if any are found they should be turned over to the nearest police station. They are 16 inches high and "Made in England" or "Made in Poland," are stamped on the bottom of one foot.

Sheriff's Capt. Eugene Stewart said today his office has picked up a handful. They reportedly have been sold on the Peninsula in San Mateo, Redwood City, Daly City, Palo Alto, and Mountain View, he said.

Daly City Fire Department collected 20 dolls, Pacifica 14 and San Bruno 10.

Elsewhere in the South County, Belmont has seen the heaviest traffic in the little dolls, with the police taking in seven and the fire department five, so far. San Carlos police reported having four, Redwood City police five and San Carlos (Please See Page 2, Column 3)

A Rejuvenation Of 'Downtown' S. S. F.?

South San Francisco City Planner Daniel Pass recommended that the city council retain an architectural firm to conduct a survey and submit proposals for the "rejuvenation" of the downtown business district Tuesday night.

Pass, City Manager Eugene Aiello and two members of the Chamber of Commerce rejuvenation committee, John Susa and Edward Rodondi, have recommended acceptance of a proposal from Marking-Yamasaki Architects.

The firm offers to conduct necessary surveys and present plans for traffic flow, parking areas, store-to-parking ratios, and rejuvenation of Grand Avenue and Third and Fourth Lanes.

Under the proposal, the firm will also prepare cost estimates of the program and prepare and present feasible methods of financing the project. Total cost of the plans will be $8,500.

Other business scheduled for consideration at the Tuesday night meeting includes a request from Tavares Corp. for acceptance of improvements in the Tanforan Subdivision.

Grading, storm drains, sewers, fire hydrants and curbs have been completed in the shopping center site, and Director of Public Works Louis Goss has recommended that they be accepted.

The council will also hear a request for an extension of time for development of Alta Vista Subdivision Number Two from attorneys for Richard A. Pahl, developer of the project.

Goss has recommended that a six-month extension be granted the developer "because of the tight money situation." He noted the bonding company on the development has already agreed to an extension.

The subdivision contains five lots.

Another matter which will "very likely" be taken up Tuesday is the proposed construction of a garbage incineration plant in the city's industrial area.

The planning commission approved the South San Francisco Scavenger Company's plans to construct the $2 million plant last Tuesday over the objections of officials from several neighboring industrial concerns in the area.

D.C. Money Shift Finance Director Backs Treasurer

Daly City Finance Director Robert Hossli said he supports City Treasurer Joseph Lewkowitz in his decision to consolidate the city's checking deposits into a single account.

Hossli said he recommended the move "after City Mgr. Edward Frank asked my opinion in the matter."

"Both the treasurer and I are convinced this action will result in considerable savings for the city," the finance director said.

Hossli added, however, that he did not agree with Lewkowitz' estimate of the savings and additional earnings to be gained from the move, stating that the treasurer's figure of $20,000 per year "is probably a little high."

The savings are to result from simplified bookkeeping and better cash control.

Officials of the Bank of America, which has handled the bulk of the city's checking funds for the past six years, reportedly objected last week when Lewkowitz placed all the deposits in an account at First National Bank of Daly City.

The total checking deposits average about $200,000 per month.

The city has used the two Daly City Bank of America branches and the Crocker Citizens Bank for its checking business in the past.

from the J. Jacobs Company, a men's accessories distributor located at 214 East Harris Avenue, has reportedly been posted.

If the letter of appeal reaches councilmen prior to the Tuesday afternoon caucus session, the matter will be discussed at that time.

Councilmen will set a date for a public hearing after appeals are received.

Pacific's building revenue losses were severe, compared with the 1965 valuation.

The building department this week reported a 1966 construction valuation figure of $5,900,000. Valuation the previous year was $7,924,367.

However, there are optimists. There is talk the problem will be eased in 1967. If the losses are lessened, as one real estate man told city councilmen this week, it will rank among the top achievements of the new year.

1967, will have an easier task as a result.

Still in Pacifica—yet on its way out—is the USS Johnson, a hardy destroyer-escort, old 583, whose beaching in October caused quite a stir, brought lots of "mileage" in news media and attracted thousands of sightseers to the bluff of Mori's Point. It seemed to be the fuchsia city's major 1966 tourist attraction.

The Johnson is being cut up on the beach for salvage.

The ship was to be at a Southern California salvage yard long before now. However, a tow line snapped and she was swept onto shore, a curious sight imbedded there in the sand.

It did not take long before the Johnson became "our ship."

"Hey, have you seen our ship?" Most Pacificans similarly attached "our" to her. Dengler, a Navy pilot who trekked through a jungle for 23 days after escaping from a Communist prison. A 'Lost' Boy Slept Warmly In Brisbane

A small army of cold and harried police officers and volunteers uttered a mass sigh of relief and went to bed early Tuesday after searching the Brisbane hills all night for 6-year-old Ronald Ray Burnett, who slept warmly in the basement of his grandparents' home.

The search began when Ronnie failed to show up for dinner Monday and ended at 7:45 a.m. Tuesday. His grandmother, Mrs. Frank Boroer, discovered him sitting complacently beneath the kitchen table, either unconcerned or unaware that he had been the object of an all-night "manhunt."

"I thought it would be a nice adventure to sleep in the basement," he said. "It was warm by the water heater, and I slept between two chaise lounge mattresses."

Mr. and Mrs. Boroer became concerned about 4 p.m. Monday when Ronnie, who has lived in their home at 125 Mariposa Avenue since his parents separated six months ago, failed to return home from an outing at the Lipman School playground.

They notified the boy's father, Arthur Burnett, and he went to the playground to look for the child.

When the father arrived at the school, other children playing in the area told him Ronnie had left a few minutes earlier in the direction of Crocker Industrial Park "to see the fire." A fire alarm had been set off by a faulty sprinkler system at the Chancellor and Lyons plant.

A massive search for the boy was organized a few minutes later, with more than 30 Brisbane policemen and San Mateo County Sheriff deputies combing the hills around Brisbane through the night.

Two bloodhounds from the sheriff's department were brought in, but they failed to pick up a trail.

Mrs. Vita Gomes, a neighbor who sometimes babysits with Ronnie, said she and other neighborhood volunteers "knocked on every door in town" in attempting to locate the boy.

Mrs. Gomes was in the Boroer home when Ronnie was discovered beneath the kitchen table.

and Redwood City firemen one each. Menlo Park and Atherton reported none.

The Federal Food and Drug Administration revealed it had requested A. D. Sutton & Sons of New York City, the importer, to recall its stocks from retail outlets across the country.

The current doll scare is reminiscent of one earlier last year, when exploding dolls from South Vietnam reportedly were being sent to this country. The alarm proved to be false.

Stewart refused to name names of stores handling the dolls locally. Some of the dolls apparently have been around for some time, with two Redwood City parents reporting they bought theirs last year, one in San Francisco and one at the Stanford Shopping Center.

Land Deal Is Chided

thought the city's first estimate more reasonable.

While the school district hired the appraisers, the city paid for them.

This prompted Wallis to urge that whenever the city pays for an appraisal it pick its own appraisers.

There was the additional thinking expressed from the half-circled council table that the council policy of not allowing the city to profit from a business dealing with another public agency be related to trustees of the school district.

CTA. In that matter, it's a question of "ethics" that is being pondered.

Charges have been hurled at the district's superintendent, Frank Greenwood, and denied.

Daly City has seen its share of pickets, as well, such as the open housing pickets that rocked Serramonte subdivision developers last summer and the car wash parent's picket line on Hillsdale Boulevard a few weeks ago.

Judges of beauty selected Vivian Rieger to reign as Miss Daly City. Portable Westmoor High classrooms were expected to cost 100 grand—a substitute for busing of pupils. Plans for a fully enclosed Serramonte High School were disclosed. Jeff High District coaches won extra pay, as did some other instructors who do extra work—a long battle won. Tragedy also had a role.

Patrolman Richard Klass, 25, was shot with his own weapon in a scuffle with escaped prisoner he was trying to subdue.

Four Hurt In S.S.F. Accident

Four persons were injured Sunday in a two-car collision at the intersection of Spruce Lane and Terrace Drive in South San Francisco, police reported.

Kathleen McNeil, 16 Sonoma Avenue, South San Francisco, and George Payne, 777 Easton Avenue, San Bruno, were taken by ambulance to Peninsula Hospital after the wreck occurred about 4 p.m. They were treated for bruises and lacerations and later released.

Karl Leberz, 751 Lockhaven Drive, Pacifica, and Vera Dutcher, 688 Claredge Drive, Pacifica, were treated at a physician's office for lacerations.

Police said a vehicle driven by Payne was westbound on Terrace and the other car, driven by Leberz, was traveling south on Spruce when the accident occurred.

Damages to the vehicles were estimated at several hundred dollars.

Girl Hurt In Stable Mishap

A 13-year-old San Francisco girl was hospitalized Wednesday with back injuries after she fell from a horse at Mar Vista Stables in Daly City.

Joyce H. Terrien, 36 Bucarell Drive, was listed in satisfactory condition today at Mary's Help Hospital.

Newsboy's Tip Saves D.C. Garage

An alert Daly City newsboy prevented major damage to a Christopher Court home Thursday afternoon when he spotted smoke boiling out of the garage and notified the fire department.

Firemen said rubbish in the garage of the George Godderis residence at 16 Christopher Court caught fire about 4 p.m. Newsboy Kevin Muttter of 33 Manzanita was credited with saving the house.

Godderis, who was in the process of moving from the house, had placed empty boxes and other rubbish in the garage. The fire was believed to have started from ashes from the fireplace dumped in the pile of rubbish.

Use Permit Okay For Incinerator Plant in S.S.F.

South San Francisco planning commissioners approved a use permit for a garbage incineration plant Tuesday night after a "lengthy and heated" discussion, City Planner Daniel Pass said.

Commissioners voted 5-2 in favor of issuing the permit to the South San Francisco Scavenger Company for establishment of a "solid-waste material incineration plant" at the northwest corner of Harbor Way and Mitchell Avenue.

Arguments against issuing the permit were based upon the "aesthetic aspects of the matter," Pass said.

The site for the proposed plant is located in the city's "industrial park" district.

Under South San Francisco's zoning ordinance, decisions of the planning commission may be appealed to the city council, and indications were that the commission's decision in the matter would be appealed, Pass said.

In other business this week, the commission granted conditional approval of a parcel map of the 67-acre subdivision of Caesar-Callan Homes, Inc., at the corner of Junipero Serra and Westborough Boulevard.

The map indicates a three-lot division of the site, which is located in the city's "C-1" (commercial) district.

The parcel map was approved on the condition of council approval, because the site includes dedicated areas, Pass said.

Bruno Gets $60,000 By Court Rule

San Bruno's city treasury will be improved by more than $60,000 as the result of a decision handed down by the District Court of Appeal upholding the city's trucking ordinances.

The DCA reversed a 1964 Superior Court decision which ordered the city to pay $33,592 to a hauling contractor Nicholas Ratkovich. And at the same time the district court ordered Ratkovich to pay the city an additional $26,607.

The decision culminates a six-year dispute between the city and the contractor. In 1960, Ratkovich signed a contract to haul fill material from the Westborough tract to International Airport. Between July of that year and November of 1961 he hauled more than 3,000,000 tons of dirt, most of it via San Bruno Avenue.

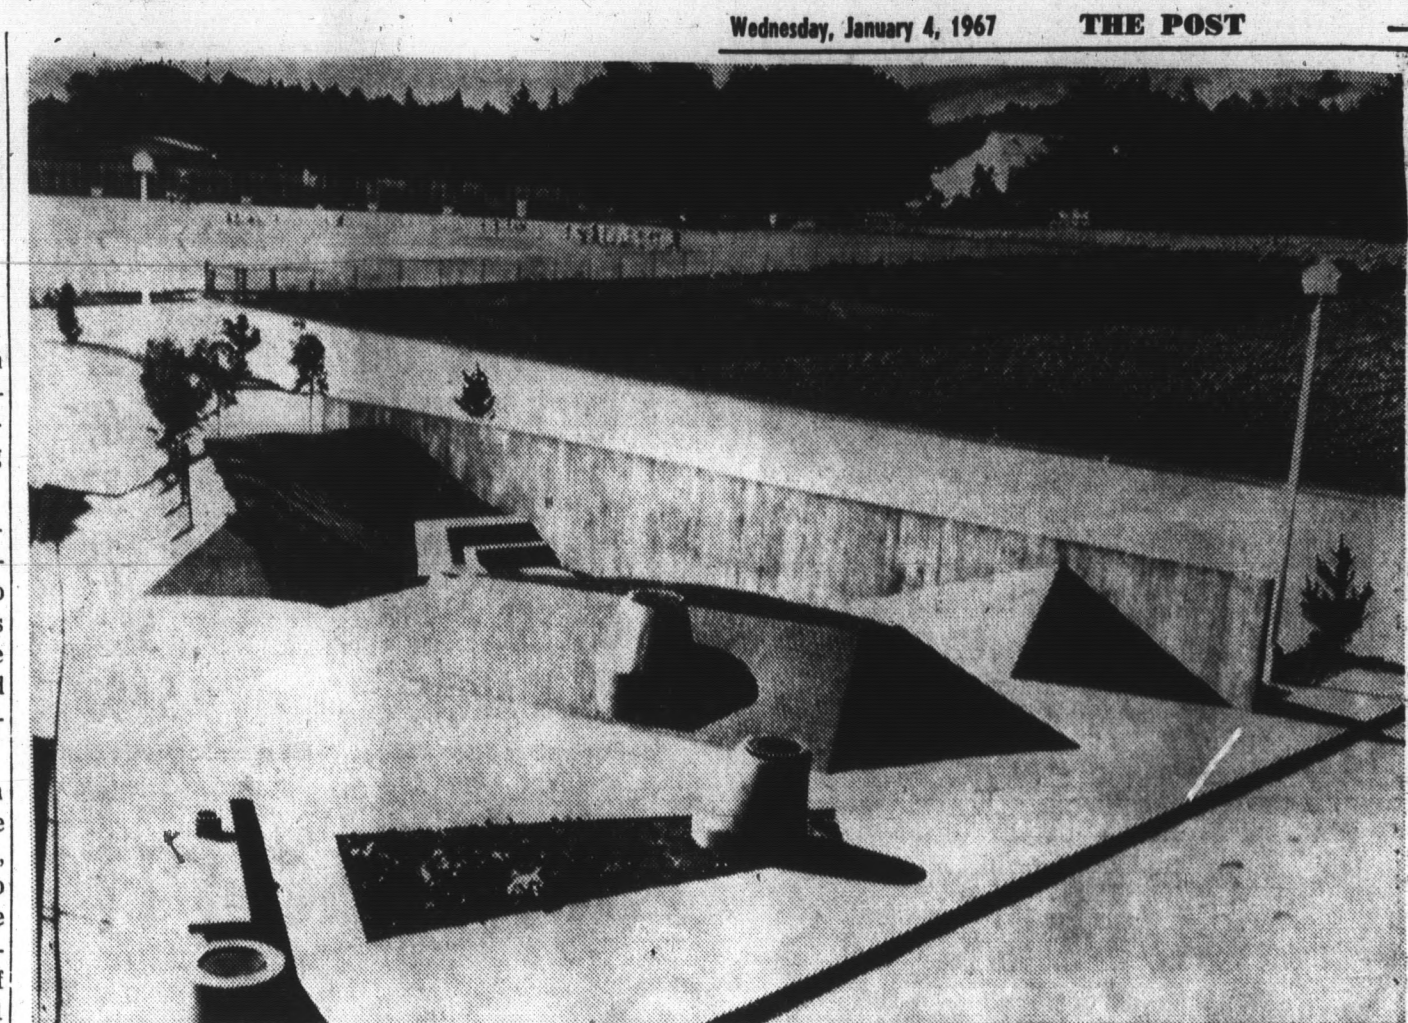

The city required him to get a permit and to pay a fee of two cents a ton. Ratkovich paid the fees — totaling $33,592 — for 10 months, but then discontinued making payments, although he continued hauling. In 1961 he filed suit to recover the money he had paid. The city filed a counter-suit for $32,524 it claimed Ratkovich still owed.

Trial was held in 1964 and Superior Judge Wayne R. Millington ruled that the city's ordinances were invalid. He ordered the city to return the money to Ratkovich. The city filed an appeal.

The DCA made a finding that the ordinances were passed and the fee established to protect the road against damage by heavy trucks. It held that the basis for the ordinances were reasonable.

"The trial court's findings that plaintiff (Ratkovich) did not damage the street and the city did not repair it are beside the point," the decision states.

The DCA ruling was that the city should get less from Ratkovich than it asked — $26,607 instead of the $32,524 it asked. The money represents the accumulation of 2-cent-a-ton fees that the contractor did not pay.

WINNER —The Kauffmann Arena, situated on the grounds of the new South San Francisco Public Library on Orange Avenue, has been selected for recognition by the Governor's Design Awards Jury. Architect Garo Dorian, a resident of Westborough in South San Francisco, is the designer of the award-winning arena. Dorian has made provisions for lectures, readings, plays, art shows and movies within the complex. Dedication of the arena will be in late January.

D.C. Sidetracks Access Appeals

Daly City councilmen have sidetracked a request for direct access into unimproved land at the northwest intersection of Skyline Boulevard and Olympic Way, in the northwest quadrant of the Alemany-Skyline intersection.

Murray and Annie Morton asked the council for access to Thornton Beach Road, "so that traffic will be routed through the existing activated traffic signals," instead of "an unprotected left hand turn across a 65 mile an hour expressway."

The Nortons pointed out, "We have intention of developing the land..."

They were complying with State Division of Highways procedure that calls for city and county requests for the new access.

"The land," the Nortons stated, "is presently vacant and comprises approximately 5.176 acres, zoned commercial."

Property taxes are currently $2,452 annually, and "of course," they said, "upon development, the tax revenue will increase by many times this figure."

The petitioners added they thought the improvements would be in "the best interests of the public."

City Manager Ed Frank told councilmen he frowned on the request at this time, because of a number of other projects which Daly City is seeking state action, including Cabrillo, Mission and Junipero Serra highway improvements.

These, he indicated, carry greater priority in city staff minds.

Vandals At Bruno Park

Firemen in San Bruno are probing the destruction of a picnic table and benches at the Hap Becker Memorial Shelter at City Park.

Someone, possibly juveniles, Wednesday night tried to "roast" some three or four such table-bench units, by setting them atop the grate on the large barbecue pit and lighting a fire.

One unit was destroyed and another "well-done" before firemen were called to the scene.

Commuters Escape Hike In 3 Cities

Commuters in the northern tip of San Mateo County have escaped a state-wide 7 per cent fare increase granted Greyhound Bus Lines by the State Public Utilities Commission.

The new rates, approved yesterday by the commission, will become effective in 30 days.

Not included are fares for commuters to San Francisco from Bayshore, Daly City and Colma. They'll continue to pay $5.60 for a 20-ride book.

Greyhound won the increase after showing the commission that $2.3 million is needed to pay higher wages of drivers, mechanics and other employees. The company said the new rates will bring in an $1.9 million in new revenue and it will make up the $400,000 difference on its own.

OBSERVANCE

The widespread observance of January 1 as the start of the new year stems from Imperial Rome. Julius Caesar chose the date as the first day of the Roman year when he initiated the Julian calendar.

Close Shave By Sweeper

A San Bruno owned street sweeper clipped the right side of a Millbrae motorist's car Wednesday.

No one was hurt.

Police said the sweeper, operated northbound on Huntington Avenue, by William Narlock, 52, 558 Hazel, San Bruno was turning left near the San Bruno Avenue intersection.

A vehicle being driven by Edward Costa, 36, 1179 Helen Drive, Millbrae, also northbound on Huntington, was nearly stopped at the intersection.

As the sweeper turned, it struck the Costa auto with its left fender.

DERIVATION

The word "cracker" is one of those interesting words that came into being because breaking the "biscuit," as crackers were once called, made a crackling sound.

Fire Damages D.C. Home, Faulty Circuit Is Blamed

A Daly City home was damaged by a smoky kitchen fire Thursday; one fireman — a battalion chief — was injured before the blaze was completely subdued.

Battalion Chief Melvin Hansen was treated for leg abrasions and a badly strained wrist at Mary's Help Hospital. Later, he was released.

The fire, which mushroomed apparently from a faulty electrical circuit in a built-in oven, spread through the kitchen cupboards and up into the attic at the home of Herbert Lorin, 87 Avalon Drive.

By the time firemen arrived, shortly after 6 p.m., the home was filled with smoke so thick that firemen in gas masks were unable to find the blaze itself for several minutes.

The smoke damaged thick pile rugs and expensive furniture, and clothes, including new Christmas gifts in the home.

Once firemen pinpointed the blaze, they attacked it with low pressure hoses.

The Loring family was away when firemen arrived, but returned a half hour later and stood by as the smoke-eaters fought to save the residence.

As three units from the Lake Merced station continued a two-hour operation in extinguishing the fire and clearing smoke by cutting a hole in the roof. Chief Hansen fell over a hose line, landing heavily on the sidewalk.

He was rushed to Mary's Help Hospital, when his injuries were determined.

Tanforan Work Is Approved

San Bruno councilmen have adopted a resolution accepting improvements of the Tanforan subdivision.

Streets, curbing and utility lines for the giant shopping center site have been completed for several months.

Councilmen also scheduled a public hearing on a request for zoning changes on a portion of the site for February 13.

The city's planning commission recommended that the changes be approved at a meeting two weeks ago.

The Tavares Corp., developer of the subdivision, requested that zoning on a 30-acre section of the site north of Sneath Lane be changed from "P-D" (planned development) to "C-C" (controlled commercial) zoning.

The request stems from a decision to abandon plans for an apartment house complex on the site, planning commissioners said. A Tavares spokesman indicated several weeks ago the apartment project would have to be abandoned because of the "tight money" situation.

In other business Tuesday, councilmen reappointed Dr. S. J. Spinharney to a four-year term on the city's personnel board. Dr. Spinharney's present term expires next month.

A request from the Samoan Congregational Church for a permit to hold two benefit dances was granted. The dances will be held December 30 and January 14.

The council presented a certificate of service to retiring police officer Arthur Britton, who has been a member of the city's police force since 1928.

A resolution approving the by-laws of the San Mateo County Mayors' Council was adopted, and final adoption was given an ordinance establishing speed limits on streets in the Tanforan subdivision.

FORMAL LANDSCAPING of the nearly-completed Daly City municipal building on Ninetieth Street and Sullivan Avenue was begun Tuesday with the planting of the first trees. The building's neo-classic lines of exposed aggregate will be complimented by the landscaping designs of Baronian and Associates of San Francisco. Sixteen different varieties of plantings will be noted, from trees like the London

Plane Trees planted this week to Hahn's Ivy and Needlepoint Ivy ground cover. A cutleaf maple will be placed in a central spot. Participating in first-tree planting ceremonies were Councilmen Ed Dennis, August Conci, Works Supt. Art Retschke, City Manager Ed Frank, freshman Councilman Tony Giammona and Councilman Frank Pacelli. (Times Photo)

TONY GIAMMONA, Daly City's newest councilman, takes the rostrum to address members of the audience and his fellow councilmen. NEW D.C. COUNCILMAN

Giammona Sworn In

Anthony Giammona, Westmoor High School's athletic director, became a member of Daly City's council last Monday night, taking his oath of office from Judge Charles Becker of the Northern Judicial District.

Soon after, there was other readjustment of the formal character of the city council, as heretofore Mayor Pro Tempore Bernard Lycett officially became "hizzoner," through unanimous vote of his colleagues.

Veteran municipal legislator Michael Debernardi is the new "mayor pro tempore." Giammona won appointment to the council over several candidates to a post vacated by former Mayor Albert Polonsky, now city attorney.

Polonsky succeeded the newest Northern Judicial District judge, Paul Hupf, who was the city's legal counsel.

A resolution commending Giammona, from the Jefferson High School District, was read.

Lycett, in accepting the gavel as the city's full-fledged mayor noted the city was "progressing very well" and that the new year will be capped with the dedication of a new city hall.

He said, too, "The best I have will be yours for the next year!"

Monkees In Cow Palace

Sunday, January 22 at 3 p.m., the Monkees will make their first California stage appearance at the Cow Palace in Daly City.

David Jones, Peter Tork, Mickey Dolenz and Mike Nesmith are the four zany youngsters who comprise "The Monkees."

With their electric guitars tambourines and close-blending singing voices the Monkees are representative of the current generation... unconventional in dress, long hair and poor. The Monkees as a group were created by Screen Gems Television producers who wanted the best talent they could find to play the part of four young men who wanted to make it big in the pop music world and literally they have.

The Monkees' first disk, "Last Train to Clarksville" was a guaranteed smash before it was even released. Just a few weeks after the release of The Monkees' single and album, both disks were at the top of the charts in their respective categories. Now they have firmly established themselves as hit-makers with their latest single

"I'm a Believer." It has already sold over a million copies and took a short three weeks to reach the number one spot in the nation.

The Monkees can be seen weekly on the NBC Television Network in color Mondays from 7:30-8:00 p.m. Incidentally, San Francisco leads the nation in 'Monkee Mania' with 250,000 albums already sold by the local distributor in the Bay Area.

San Bruno Trucking Rules Will Be Studied By City

Mayor Karney Barberian appointed after City Attorney Joseph Galligan reported a dirt hauling contractor's appeal for a rehearing in a lawsuit against the city has been denied.

The committee, headed by Councilman Neil Christal, was appointed after City Attorney Joseph Galligan reported a dirt hauling contractor's appeal for a rehearing in a lawsuit against the city has been denied.

Galligan said he was notified of the Supreme Court's denial of the request for rehearing last week.

Mayor Barberian said the lawsuit, which has been in the courts about three years, has prevented any revision of the city's trucking ordinance.

"Now that we know where we stand, we will implement a more comprehensive ordinance regulating trucking activities," the mayor said.

The court battle arose over the city's levying a fee of two cents per ton on dirt hauled over specified city streets. In 1964, a superior court decision in Redwood City awarded Ratkovich a $33,500 judgment.

The appeals court in San Francisco overruled the superior court decision last October, and awarded the city a $26,607 judgment against the contractor for unpaid fees.

Both Galligan and Mayor Barberian said they consider the outcome of the lawsuit a "major landmark" in development of trucking ordinances, and the case is believed to be the only one of its type tried in the state.

Le Pacini

If we had to pick the Most Ridiculous Event in Sports, 1966, it would without qualification be Doug Sanders' disqualification in the Pensacola Open when he forgot to sign his score card.

Golf officials from the PGA (Under whose auspices the Pensacola Open was played) and USGA (as in all professions, they back their own) are still rationalizing the rule and if they want our advice they should let the whole thing die, because their big toe is about to reach their esophagus.

Take for example an article recently written by a USGA official for a San Francisco daily. He wrote that what this whole thing really gets down to is a Code of Honor, that unlike other sports, golf requires that a golfer be his own referee and scorekeeper and his is proper because in handling this responsibility the golfer preserves golf as a Game of Honor.

He mouthed such platitudes as "Change the concepts and you change the game . . . Would this (changing of such rules) be best for golf in the long run? . . . The player must be responsible AS IN LIFE."

His final line was a real show stopper: "One thing seems certain — there will be no successful campaign to render golfers irresponsible"

During the course of the article he listed some suggestions which have been made over the years to lighten the burden of such obligation for the player, and then pompously dismissed every one of them with reasons which didn't sound as good to us as the suggestions he dumped.

What really made us indignant about the article, after we stopped laughing, was the perhaps unintentional but certainly obvious implication that all sports which employ referees or judges or umpires and scorekeepers aren't honorable, and that all athletes who indulge in such sports aren't really the types you'd trust keeping the company books.

If such a philosophy were applied to all sports you might view scenes such as the following:

Willie Mays watches a Don Drysdale fast ball veer past the outside corner. "Ball one," shouts Willie.

"No, man," says Johnny Roseboro, "that one hit the corner."

"The corner goes to the batter," says Willie, and following it all to its logical conclusion, Roseboro ends up with matching head contusions.

Rick Barry dumps one from 25 feet out with two seconds remaining to whip the 76ers and bring the Warriors their first championship. Headlines the next day blare, "COMMISSIONER FORGETS TITLE TO PHILADELPHIA . . . BARRY NEGLECTS TO RUSH TO SCORER'S TABLE TO RECORD BUCKET, DISHONORS SELF BY FORGETTING TO SIGN FOR FREE THROW TOTALS."

If you can excuse some late ideas, the Dick Tiger-Jose Torres lightweight championship bout brought out one of sports most interesting facets — that what to spectators seems insignificant or even beneficial to an opponent is often the most significant factor in his being licked.

In the Tiger-Torres fight most of Tiger's body punches were blocked by Torres' elbows. That's what beat Torres, because he was so over-protective of his glass-walled tummy that he forgot to mount an attack of his own.

You'll remember that Rocky Marciano critics used to cry that all he did was hit guys on the arms — which is exactly what beat them. Their arms would become so leaden from seven or eight rounds of catching Marciano blockbusters that eventually they'd leave their chins unprotected.

You can probably think of other such examples for all sports.

HOTSTOVE LEAGUE: Willie Mays claims in the Sporting News that the reason Tito Fuentes made so many errors on routine plays was that he has small hands and insists on wearing a small glove. Mays bought him a large glove last year which he quickly discarded, and Willie claims that this year, as team captain, he's going to weld a big glove on Tito's left hand. The moral of the story is that it makes you appreciate the oldtimers, who wore pancakes for gloves and still came up with the plays . . . There are 30 ex-Giants on current major league rosters . . . Much publicity had been given to the Giants' need for left-handed pitching (which they now seem to have) and a shortstop (they still need one), but little has been said for one of their greatest needs — a leadoff man who can get on base for the power boys to drive in.

Possibly the most dramatic indication of the shift of power in the AL came during the minor league draft when the Yankees chose two Oriole first-year kids which they must now keep on their 25 man roster.

LOCAL NOTES: Although they had identical 2-1 records in the recent Cloverdale Invitational, because of the way the pairings went Terra Nova and Oceana finished third and fifth, respectively. Tiger guard Jim Bresnahan, hotly sought by San Francisco State, made the all-tournament team with his total 49 points and usual all around fine play . . . Oceana girls whipped Terra Nova girls, 13-0, in the annual Powder Puff Game . . . Ex-Oceana All-NPL basketball player Dave Breazeale, now in the Air Force, was married last week to Sandra Kay Mullen.

Former Westmoor and CSM wrestling star Glen Stenstrom, now living in Pacifica, is reported a top 145-pound prospect on the Adams State Colleg mat squad. Adams State had probably the best college wrestling team in Colorado.

Recently released final 49er statistics showed some interesting quirks. Dave Kopay had the best rushing average (4.3), and John Brodie scored more touchdowns rushing (3) than anybody other than Ken Willard (5), who carried the ball almost 40 times as often. Pass receiving was amazingly balanced in the TD department, as 11 different men caught 21 payoff passes. And rookie tight end Kent Kramer caught three of them, ranking second with John David Crow behind Dave Parks, who had five. Kramer caught only two other passes all season.

Thumbing through a 40-year-old San Francisco high school yearbook recently we noted with naive surprise that city schools at one time had ice hockey and crew on their athletic schedules. And the NPL won't even be daring enough to initiate soccer into its program.

Cap Wins Consolation In Sunnyvale Tourney

Coach Jim Johnson said his Capuchino High School Mustangs could be tough to beat in the Mid-Peninsula League basketball race which opens January 11.

"If we hit well, we can beat anybody," said the Mustang coach whose basketball team won the consolation title in the Sunnyvale Holiday Basketball Tournament Friday night. The Mustangs turned back Camden High School, 56-53, in a nip and tuck game that gave Johnson the feeling his team was ready to make a good showing in MPL play.

"We came back real well after losing that first game," Johnson said. "We didn't play well in the opener. But we played better in the last three games."

Menlo-Atherton High School, the tournament winner with a 75-70 win over Del Mar High School, lost to Capuchino earlier this season.

Jimmy Kauffman heroed Cap's victory Thursday and was selected to the all-tourney team. Kauffman hit 20, 15, 16 and 16 points in the four games. "He did a real good consistent job for us," said his coach.

Capuchino had a one point lead with 16 seconds left and called time. When they inbounded the ball, Greg Owens was fouled and with 11 seconds left, the Mustangs called time again. Owens missed the charity and Mike Miller got a tip in with six seconds left. Then Kauffman stole the ball to put the game on ice.

Kauffman and Sal Deluca did all of Cap's scoring in the first period as the Mustangs took an 18-16 lead. Owen McCumber scored 11 in the second quarter for the Mustangs, who led 29-28 at halftime, on the strength of Jim Hannon's jump shot. Camden led the see-saw contest, 44-43 at the end of the third period but Kauffman and Deluca eventually put Cap in command to set the stage for Miller's tip-in.

Ticket Sales Aiding Band

San Bruno city officials are selling tickets to the San Francisco Warriors game with Baltimore January 27 to help finance the Capuchino High School Band's trip to the Rose Bowl this week, Mayor Karney Barberian said.

Mayor Barberian said the city has obtained 500 tickets to the game, which will be played at the Cow Palace.

The tickets can be purchased from the Chamber of Commerce office, the city hall or from Mayor Barberian.

The Yamaha Big Bear Scrambler was attached to a 1915 Model T shell, and then many added touches were put on it. Adolph Bernard took first place in the Westlake House Finals of the Examiner Benefit Singles Tournament as he rolled a 633 scratch series Tuesday evening. With seven consecutive strikes in the first game, he finished with a big 257 total. He dropped to 190 in the second game and finished with 186. A handicap of 62 pins based on his 169 average gave him a grand total of 696. Second place went to Roger Noll with a total of 684 on games of 217-191-246 plus a 30 pin handicap. Bob Adamson took the third qualifying spot with 675 on games of 219-183-179 plus a handicap of 94 pins. The three finalists will represent Westlake in the Grand Finals Sunday, January 8 at Castle Lanes where they will be competing for a 1967 Buick, Opel and television sets.

Jan Riney took over first place in the Junior-Senior Division of the Castle Lanes Junior Endurance Tournament as she set a new all-time twenty game record previously held by Jerri Morris.

Al Steinback rolled a big 248 second game, with 196 and 169 on either side, to lead the Westlake Knolls League for the week with a 613 series.

Dave Pansini set a torrid pace in the Country Club Handicap League Tuesday as he rolled 663 for three games. After a 198 first game, he jumped to 236 in his second game and finished with 229.

Leading the CIO-AFL League was John Davis with a 237 game and 597 series.

Another high series was posted last Tuesday as Harry Hood led the 850 American Scratch League with a 630 series on games of 232-235 and 163.

Ernie Boden in his first year out of the Junior program, took high game and high series honors in the Friday Mixed Fours with a great 253 game and 624 series. Ruth Noll was the leading lady with 217 and 571.

Blue Stamps were given out like Christmas presents Monday afternoon as Ellen Irving won 2,520, Donna Folb 2,180 and Cele Murray 1,910 to lead the winners.

Currently underway at Westlake are the year's greatest tournaments for handicap bowlers. The annual Northern California Bowling Proprietors Team Handicap Tournaments provide more cash for less entry fee than any other tournament. In the men's tournament last year, a team with an 800 average won $7,500 in the National Finals plus a cash prize in the Sectional Rolloffs. The entry fee of $3.30 per bowler is payable only once since there is no entry fee in the Sectional, State and National Finals. Teams of five members may bowl any time lanes are available. Current leaders are the members of the BHDREB/JPB team with a team total of 1,996. Bob Hood led the scoring with a great 736 series on games of 216-256 and 264. A unique feature of this tournament is the fact that bowlers are given 75 per cent handicap rather than the normal 66 2/3 per cent.

In the Thursday afternoon Blue Chip Bonanza Hazel Scogin and Bernice Mahoney were the winners with 1,640 and 1,530 respectively.

Another high series was posted last Tuesday night as Harry Hood led the 850 American Scratch League with a 630 series on games of 232-235 and 163.

In the 16-member Friday afternoon employees league, Les Barrett continues to lead with 15 wins and nine losses. Tied for second place with 14 and 10 are Jim McGuirk, Myron Williams, Hersch Laughlin and Jim Greulich.

Construction Still Booming At Airport

Construction by major tenants to cost more than $5 million a result of action yesterday by the city's public utilities commission.

Upon the recommendation of General Manager of Public Utilities James K. Carr, the commission approved preliminary plans of Western Airlines to develop a $2,500,000 jet aircraft service and maintenance center with related office facilities, and passed on final plans of United Air Lines to renovate two hangars at its Maintenance Base at an estimated cost of another $2,500,000.

Other commission action included approval of plans of Canamian Pacific Air Lines and Air California for construction of passenger and operating facilities in preparation to start of service in late January.

The Western project will be second largest on that airline's system, according to Airport General Manager George F. Hansen, and will supplement its major maintenance base at Los Angeles.

He also said United's hangar renovation is advance planning for the larger and newer family of jet aircraft, particularly the DC-8 Model 61 "stretch-out" expected to be in service within a matter of a few weeks.

Carr pointed out that preliminary plans for the United project had prior approval of the commission and today's action permits a speed-up in the program.

The United Air Lines work will include expansion of Hangar 10 by some 75,000 square feet on two floors, and adding approximately 18,500 feet to Hangar 11 plus an additional 11,000 square feet of mezzanine office space.

Daly City Council Will Receive Bids

Furniture, auditorium and steel locker installation bids will be received by Daly City officials January 12 and 13.

Sealed bids for metal office furniture, metal office chairs, file cabinets and conference tables for the new city hall are to be submitted and will be opened at 11 a.m. January 12, in the city clerk's office.

Offers for furnishing and installing auditorium seating for the new municipal complex, not yet completed, will be received by the city clerk at 2 p.m. January 13.

Bids for furnishing and installing steel lockers for the facility will be opened at 3 p.m. January 13, in the clerk's office.

All bids will be submitted to the city council.

The requirement is 100 steel lockers and 75 self-rising, upholstered auditorium seats and numerous desks and chairs.

Gunshots End Love Affair

A South San Francisco couple's three-year romance ended with a shooting scrape this week.

Arthur Carl Dietrich, 31, of 809 Larch, has been charged with firing three shots from a small caliber pistol at his former girl friend, Loretta Souza, 29, of 423 Commercial Way.

Mrs. Souza, divorced mother of a small daughter, told police her former boy friend came to her residence about 11 p.m. Monday, and appeared to have been drinking heavily.

She said he stepped into the living room with the gun in his hand when she answered the door, and she and her daughter ran out of the house and across the street to the home of a neighbor, Sharon Lawson.

While she was crossing the street, Dietrich fired three shots from the gun, Mrs. Souza said. She telephoned police from the neighbor's house.

Mrs. Souza said the quarrel began last week when she broke up with Dietrich, her "steady boy friend" for three years, after he refused to marry her before Christmas.

Humorist Awaited

Members of the Holy Angels Women's Guild will launch their 1967 agenda of programs this evening with a brief business meeting and an address by Arthur Kuersten, reports Mrs. Chris Siggle.

Kuersten, the technical adviser for the respiratory equipment of the San Francisco Fire Department, will show a film and do a live demonstration of mouth to mouth resuscitation.

Mrs. Robert Simon, president of the guild, will be presiding over the business portion of the meeting, set to begin at 8 p.m. in the Holy Angels' Parish hall.

The teen-age misses of Bethel 348, International Order of Jobs' Daughters, wound up the old year with a Christmas party complete with a visit from "Santa Claus."

Members of the Bethel received gifts and enjoyed refreshments during the festivities, according to Kathi Parvin.

The Pacific Federation Women's Club is bracing for a hilarious visit from Bill Grant, author, humorist, teacher, TV personality and the "Good Will Ambassador from Alaska," according to Mrs. Eva Morton, who is doing publicity for the unit. (Mrs. Alberta Sullivan, formerly the spokeslady for the club has retired to become a career girl.)

Mrs. Morton said Grant has agreed to discuss the topic, "Getting Your Dollars Worth," when the club holds a January meeting on the 17th. Grant who is the author of "Speaking Frankly," has been most successful lecturing and is a favorite speaker for toastmasters' functions, Mrs. Morton reported.

Mrs. Sadie Chapman is the new president of the Brotherhood Way Jewish Community Center's Senior Adult group. In recent voting she received unanimous approval by the membership, as did the others on the slate of officers proposed by the group's nominating committee.

Mrs. Chapman is the second chief executive office this fledgling group has had. She replaces Mrs. Celia Rose.

Other new officers are Mrs. Anita Jacobs, secretary-treasurer who replaces retiring treasurer Mrs. Etta Hallas. Mrs. Celia Youdovitch, editor of the club's publications, will continue to serve in that capacity for another term.

Believe it or not! The Fifty-Plus-ers of Pacifica are packing their bags again. This lively contingent of senior citizens doesn't let a month slip by without some type of excursion and the one on the docket for February is a dream-come-true for many with the wanderlust. According to Mrs. Edna Laurel Calhan, president of the organization, participating members will leave San Francisco on February 4 on the initial leg of a sojourn that will take them to all the major cities and tourist attractions in Mexico.

The tour will take 21 days and members are eligible for the fantastic group rate which will let them see such spots as Acapulco, Taxco, and spend 6 days in Mexico City, for only $339.95. Mrs. Calhan reports that figure includes the gratuities and 10 meals.

Anyone wishing more information about the trip is asked to call Mrs. Calhan, 355-2816, any day before 9 a.m.

The Richard Mills family of South San Francisco welcomed the arrival of 1967 with a party for family members in their very attractive Buri Buri home.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Richard Johnson of Brisbane hosted a holiday gathering of family members including Mrs. Johnson's parents, the Frank Wilsons of Santa Cruz and San Francisco, in their home on Christmas Eve.

Home once more in his Westlake apartment is Nick Heath who was away during the holidays visiting with relatives.

John Hockett, one of the principle Daly City Community chorus soloists and an outstanding member of San Francisco's Loring Club, sang two delightful programs during the holidays. On December 18 he was featured in the musicale held in the First Baptist Church of Clayton Valley and on Christmas morning he sang for services in the Calvary Baptist Church in San Francisco.

While most other chorus members had less crowded schedules during the Christmas season now everyone is hard at work preparing for their first concert of 1967 to be given at the Vista Mar school in Westlake on February 16. According to publicity chairman Mrs. Ann Peters the program will be the first presentation of the chorus's new repertoire.

A THOUGHT
AT NEW YEAR'S TIME

Every successful business is based upon public confidence and good will. These things cannot be bought. They must be "earned."

The public knows that certain stores are recognized as "reputable" and others are not.

And what is the secret ingredient of this important thing which every store wants—a good reputation? It is many things. It is reflected in everything the owner and his employees do in their business dealings and even in their civic and social activities.

It is the way the phone is answered. It is created by the type of advertising a firm does; by the service given to customers; by the manner complaints are handled; by the courteous and helpful attention given to customers by everyone from the sales people to the delivery men; by those little things "above and beyond the call of duty" which every customer remembers—and every good business man tries to do.

And, of course, it is the big things—good merchandise, fair prices, and integrity. You just can't beat this combination.

Sugar 'n Spice

Favorite Dishes

Nell Norton

Cooking and meal planning seems to run in cycles not always dictated by the seasonal availability and variety of foods in the markets—but rather, by the fact that one special dish becomes a favorite and thus comes to mind when planning a meal.

This first recipe is one that we use frequently in my home. It is a favorite first, because it's delicious and secondly because it's so quick and easy to prepare. Any of you good cooks who are also working wives, clip this recipe and give it a try, you will love it.

QUICK-TRICK DINNER

- 1 can (12 ounces) pork luncheon meat, cut into 8 slices
- 4 cooked potatoes, quartered
- 1 can, about 1 pound, peaches, drained
- 2 Tbsp. brown sugar
- one-eighth teaspoon allspice
- 1/4 cup mayonnaise
- 1 Tbsp. milk
- 1/4 teas. dry mustard
- 1 Tbsp. cut chives

Brown luncheon meat in a large frying pan (or if you have an electric skillet it's ideal for this meal); overlap slices in pan to make room for potatoes opposite and peaches in center. When you have arranged the meat, peaches and cooked potatoes in the skillet top them in this manner.

Over the meat and peaches sprinkle the combination of 2 Tbsp. brown sugar and one-eighth teaspoon allspice.

Combine the one-fourth cup of mayonnaise with the one-fourth teaspoon dry mustard and the tablespoon cut chives. Spoon over the potatoes.

Cover pan, cook over low heat 5 to 6 minutes, until your potatoes are hot.

THIS next entree doesn't come under the "quick and easy" heading but it does come under the "most delicious" category, and is well worth the extra effort needed in making it.

EGGPLANT NEAPOLITAN

- 1 lb. ground meat
- 1 clove of garlic, minced
- Olive oil or salad oil for frying
- 1 can stewed tomatoes (about one pound)
- 2 cans tomato sauce
- 1 pkg. onion soup mix
- 1/2 teas. oregano
- 1 medium-size eggplant (about 1 1/2 pounds)
- 2 eggs
- 1 Tbsp. water
- 1 cup fine dry bread crumbs
- 1/2 cup grated Parmesan cheese
- 1/2 pound Mozzarella cheese, thinly sliced

Brown half of meat with garlic in one tablespoon oil, breaking up meat with a fork while it cooks. Stir in the one can of stewed tomatoes, 2 cans tomato sauce, one package onion soup mix and 1/2 teas. oregano, cover; simmer 15 minutes. While this sauce is bubbling, pare eggplant; halve lengthwise then cut cross-wise into 1/4-inch slices. Beat the two eggs slightly with the one tablespoon of water in a pie plate; sprinkle the one cup

Family Life

Cub Scouting by earning his Arrow of Light, graduation certificate and Boy Scout utility box.

New denners are Mat Werner, Brad Parres and Rich Syster; assistant denners, Bob Topper and Ricardo Brusuelas. Tim Lethco and James Lewis received one year pins.

The subject will be "Interfaith Dating and Inter-marriage." Rabbi Charles Famlant, director of Hillel Foundation at Stanford University, will be the featured speaker.

of crumbs into another pie plate. Dip eggplant into egg mixture, then in crumbs; brown on both sides in hot oil in a large frying pan.

Stir any remaining egg mixture and the crumbs (more more than 1/4 cup) into the rest of the meat, (Remember you used just one-half of the pound of meat in the sauce) and form into small meatballs.

Make alternate layers of eggplant, Parmesan cheese and sauce in an eight-cup baking dish; top with ring of meat balls. Bake in moderate oven, 350-degrees, for 30 minutes. Top with slices of Mozzarella cheese, 1/4-inch slices. Beat the two eggs slightly with the one tablespoon of water in a pie plate; sprinkle the one cup

Uniforms For Girl Scouts Are Wanted

"Homes of former Girl Scouts in the South San Francisco area are being canvassed for old uniforms that can still be worn," according to De Anne Paron, chairman of the South San Francisco Girl Scout Association. "There is an urgent need for uniforms in all sizes, for all levels by girls presently in scouting who cannot afford to purchase the complete outfit in the retail store," Miss Paron said.

The association is trying to enlarge its "Uniform Exchange" under the direction of Mrs. Lee Towry. Requests have been received for Browne and Junior dresses, the Cadette skirt and blouse, and the green suit of the Senior Scout. Anyone who can donate a uniform, a part of one, or any mother who needs some part of a Scout outfit can contact Mrs. Towry, 820 Grand Avenue, South San Francisco.

DEADLY DESIGNS

PHILADELPHIA — A architect, Norman Byar, says the architectural style of most church buildings may unwittingly be contributing to the "God-is-dead" school of thought. "Most of our temples of worship today are neither traditional nor contemporary," says Byar, also a Methodist missions executive. "The majority are nondescript, uninspiring, water-down versions of a copy of some previous copy. They are in the words of Scripture, 'neither cold nor hot.' They are only 'lukewarm.'"

EMPEROR GRAPES embellish a Waldorf Salad made with some of the turkey left over from a turkey dinner.

Grapes in Salad For Leftover Turkey

HERE'S a great way to use that leftover turkey. Put it, along with in-season Emperor grapes, in a popular Waldorf Salad.

Originally Waldorf Salad, when it was introduced in New York at the turn of the century, consisted of nothing more than apples, celery and mayonnaise. But through the years cooks have found that other additions make delightful contributions to this salad.

We think you'll like the inclusion of turkey and grapes in Waldorf Salad as much as our tasters did. And we have still another delicious changeabout for you — Old-fashioned Cooked Dressing is used instead of mayonnaise in the following recipe.

Emperor grapes are an excellent choice for this salad because although their texture is not tough, on the crisp side, their skins are not tough.

TURKEY-GRAPE WALDORF SALAD
2 1/2 cups diced cooked turkey
2 cups diced celery
3 cups halved, seeded Emperor grapes
1 1/2 cups unpeeled diced red apple
1/2 teaspoon salt
Dash of white pepper
Old-fashioned Cooked Dressing (see recipe)
Lettuce

In a large mixing bowl, toss together the turkey, celery, grapes, apple, salt and pepper. Add enough Old-fashioned Cooked Dressing to moisten and flavor — you may wish to use all of it. Arrange on lettuce. Or do not add the dressing to the salad, but pass it separately. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

OLD-FASHIONED COOKED DRESSING
2 tablespoons flour
4 teaspoons sugar
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1/2 teaspoon salt
1-16 teaspoon white pepper
Dash of cayenne pepper
1/2 cup milk
2 tablespoons butter or margarine

1 large egg, slightly beaten
2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
2 tablespoons cider vinegar
In a heavy saucepan (1 to 1 1/2-quart size) stir together the flour, sugar, mustard, salt, white pepper and cayenne pepper. Gradually stir in the milk, keeping smooth. Cook and stir constantly over moderately low heat until thickened and bubbly; remove from heat; stir in butter until melted. Gradually but vigorously stir some of this hot mixture into the slightly beaten egg; stir back into remaining hot mixture. Gradually stir in the lemon juice and vinegar. Return to very low heat and, stirring constantly, cook briefly until thickened. Do not boil — lift the pan off the heat several times if necessary to prevent boiling. Mixture will be about the consistency of medium white sauce. Cover and refrigerate until chilled and thickened to about the consistency of thick white sauce. Makes about 1 1/2 cups. Use as the dressing for Turkey-Grape Waldorf Salad.

Quick Filling For a Cake

Quickly made filling and frosting for cake — with fine flavor.

Cheese Souffle with Bacon Curls
English Muffins Salad Bowl
Layercake with Chocolate Filling and Frosting

CHOCOLATE FILLING AND FROSTING
1/2 cup butter, slightly soft
1-3 cup confectioners sugar
1 egg yolk
1/2 cup (1/2 of a six-ounce package) semi-sweet chocolate pieces, melted
1 teaspoon instant coffee dissolved in 1-3 cup boiling water

In small mixer bowl, thoroughly beat together the butter, sugar and egg yolk, then melted chocolate—mixture will be thick. Gradually beat in coffee—mixture will thin. Allow to stand for a few minutes to stiffen slightly, then use as filling and frosting for two 9-inch cake layers.

Bake Barley To Go With A Meat Dish

Ever use baked barley to accompany a meat dish?

Oven Beef Stew with Onions and Carrots
Fried Barley and Mushrooms
Salad
Fresh Fruit Holiday Cookies

BAKED BARLEY AND MUSHROOMS
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1 small onion, finely chopped
1 cup pearly medium-size barley
1 can (6 ounces) sliced mushrooms

1 1/2 cups fat-free veal broth
In a 10-inch skillet over low heat, melt the butter; add onion and cook until wilted. Add barley and cook and stir until it begins to turn golden. Remove from heat and stir in mushrooms. 1/2 cup of the mushroom liquid and 1/4 cup of the veal broth; turn into a 1-quart round or glass casserole (6 1/2 by 2 1/2 inches). Bake, tightly covered, in a moderate (350 degrees) oven for 30 minutes. Pour remaining 1 cup broth over the barley. Continue baking, tightly covered for 30 minutes — barley should be cooked through but chewy. Makes 6 servings.

CHOCOLATE-PEPPERMINT BARS
1 roll Refrigerated Slice 'n Bake Cookies(x)
6-ounce package semi-sweet chocolate pieces
1-3 cup crushed peppermint candy

Oven: 375 degrees.
Yield: 18 to 24 bars.
Slice cookie dough as directed on label. Press pieces into bottom of ungreased 13x9-inch pan. Bake at 375 degrees for 15 to 18 minutes, until golden brown. Cool.

Melt chocolate pieces over hot water. Stir in half of crushed peppermint candy. Spread over cooled cookies. Sprinkle with remaining candy. Let chocolate set before cutting into bars.

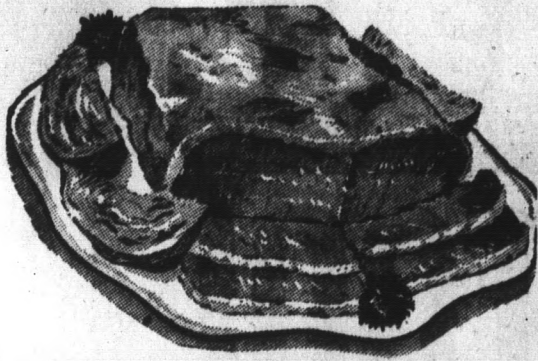

(x)—Use Sugar, Peanut Butter, Butterscotch Nut, Chunky Choc'lit or Dilly Vanilla Cookies.

SAUCY RAISINS GO WITH HAM. Simmer 1 cup California seedless raisins with 2-3 cup water about 5 minutes or until water is almost absorbed. Stir in 1 teaspoon dry mustard, 1 tablespoon grated orange peel and 1 cup apple jelly. Blend well and heat thoroughly.

The Key to Success With Bare Root Plants

By IVA NEWMAN

Nurseries are full of "bare root" plants at this season of the year. These are plants that, up until a month or six weeks ago, were growing happily in rows in some grower's fields. They were scooped up out of the earth by a digging machine, their roots washed free of soil, graded for size and bundled off to market to eventually find a new home in your garden and mine.

Many kinds of plants are sold bare root but roses, in all probability, head the list with deciduous fruit and ornamental trees second in line. Some types of deciduous shrubs and berry plants are offered in many nurseries as well as lily bulbs. All of these plants have one thing in common, they must have their exposed roots protected against drying out while they are waiting for a new home. Most nurseries build special bins to hold these plants and "heal them in" (cover the bare roots with a moistened material such as shingle, saw dust or peat moss). When a plant is sold a wad of this moistened material is wrapped with the roots.

Thrifty gardeners make it a practice to do their plant buying during the bare root season for two very justifiable reasons: 1—A much wider selection of finer plants are available at this time and 2—The plants are much less expensive because less labor has been used in their production. The meticulous gardener feels, with some justification, that plants are better off if they can be spared the severe root pruning necessary to place them in cans.

Most plants, sold bare root, are pretty sturdy. In fact they seem to have a great desire to live and will do so under some pretty rough treatment. We have seen roses live and bloom after their roots had been waded into a ball and shoved into a hole scarcely as large as a gallon can. We have also seen fruit trees planted with their roots twisted every which way to make them fit into a hole that was much too small. However, these abused plants couldn't compare with similar plants that had been planted properly, in either looks or productiveness.

Ever since I can remember, gardeners and nurserymen have cautioned beginners that it was better to place a 50 cent plant in a $5 hole than a $10 plant in a $1 hole. This caution is still needed today.

Hole Size Depends on Root Size

The size of the hole depends entirely on the size of the root system of the plant that goes into that hole. Most experienced gardeners frown heavily on trimming the roots to fit the hole. Bending them to circle the hole is as bad or possibly worse as that circling root can, in time, choke a tree to death. During nearly every heavy rainstorm we see trees topple that have large roots tightly circled about the trunk.

We plant so many bare root plants each year that we have developed a system that gets

BARE ROOT PLANTS from roses to trees have the same planting needs which must be followed if they are to give the maximum of beauty for which they were purchased. 1—A hole large enough to easily accommodate the full root system with a mound in the center to hold the plant at the correct height. (Roots are kept in a slurry of mud until everything is ready.) 2—Roots are carefully fitted over the mound with no space left for air under the crown. 3—Roots are covered with soil with plenty of space left to form a basin for water, which should be filled two or three times. 4—Roses and shrubs that branch from the base such as raspberries, are hilled up to protect the bud union. every one of our plants off to a deeper than they were in the to hold the roots evenly about the cone for better anchoring. Once in place more mixed soil is added to cover the roots and firmed around them.

Water is the next step. With the hose running a slow stream, fill the hole at least twice, three times is better, then let all the water drain out of sight. Fill the hole with the mixed soil and let it pile up loosely over the bud union, if it is a rose. If it is a tree, be careful to keep soil from piling up about the trunk. More trees are killed by too deep planting than any other cause.

A new innovation that we are trying out is the making of a hole in the soil mound with a sharpened stake (the mound must be well firmed so it won't crumble) and filling the hole with cottonseed meal or fish meal to within an inch of the top which we fill with the soil mixture as a plug. For years every gardener and nurseryman has warned against putting fertilizer in the planting hole when planting bare root plants. This was because the nitrogen in the fertilizer burned the young feeder roots when it came in contact with them. By being careful in placing the fertilizer in the center of the cone it can't come in contact with the newly developed feeder roots until after they are of a size to use it for feeding the plant.

After the cone is ready the plant is placed and the roots evenly distributed over it. We sometimes cut wire coathangers and use the hairpin-shaped ends

Red Simon Bolivar Tea Rose Lauded

Simon Bolivar is a neon-bright Chinese red hybrid tea rose created by David Armstrong of Armstrong Nurseries, Ontario, Calif. The long-stemmed bloom of this rose is the answer to an arranger's dream.

Simon Bolivar is just one of many very fine roses that are never entered in the All-America Rose Competition. There are several reasons why producers hold back some of their fine new varieties from this competition. It could be that the company knows they have a real winner and wish to keep the profits at home for the first few years. This seems to be the reason the Jackson & Perkins Company kept the John F. Kennedy white rose out of the competition. They knew they had about the best white rose ever to be introduced, and once a rose wins an All-America the budwood must be made available to every grower.

Another reason is that frequently the hybridizer doesn't have enough plants to supply the required number to each AARS test garden and still keep enough to produce the needed budwood for growing the variety in quantity. Another reason is that the producer believes his new rose to be especially adapted to certain locations only.

We do not know why Simon Bolivar was kept out of the All-America competition but we do know that it has been most satisfactory in our garden. We have been privileged to grow this rose for a year. We found the medium to large buds well proportioned and the big, glowing blooms with their 40 or more velvety petals a delight. Delightful, too, were the 18 to 20 inch stems that held the buds and flowers high for arrangements. We are speaking of the stems after cutting as no dedicated rosarian takes more than one-half to three-quarters of the stem with the cut bloom.

When we are sent a rose to grow, before it is introduced, all we know about it is its number and whether it is a hybrid tea, grandiflora or floribunda, everything else we must find out for ourselves. Our Simon Bolivar was set out in the lower garden with four other late arrivals. All of the plants grew very well but the two on the east were very susceptible to mildew, the one on the west had some mildew but the foliage of

Home and Garden

Simon Bolivar stayed clean all season, so we list it as very mildew resistant. As you guessed by the long stems the plant is a sturdy, upright grower, even erect in habit. The foliage is large, glossy and deep green. As roses generally do better the second year they are in the garden we are looking forward to the 1967 season with excitement.

COMMENT

More Frequent Census Taking

A national census every five years, instead of every ten, has again been proposed, this time with emphasis on keeping up with rapid changes in the cities.

Richard M. Scammon, former Census Bureau director, has told a Senate subcommittee that more frequent data are needed to help Washington allocate urban aid as well as to guide local planning.

Scammon's estimate that nearly half the nation's city dwellers have moved to new homes since the 1960 census is, if accurate, an indication of how quickly statistics become outdated. But the public is not entirely in the dark about population trends.

The Census Bureau conducts an extensive series of samplings, among them periodical surveys of 223 metropolitan areas. Early this year it published an "Americans at Mid-Decade" study which showed a national population of 195 million in 1965, Los Angeles replacing Chicago as the second largest metropolitan area, urban regions growing twice as fast as other parts of the nation, and a letup in the "flight to the suburbs."

Of course, samplings can only provide estimates, and they do not yield many details. But with techniques improving from year to year, further effort to perfect sampling methods would be a better use of the taxpayers' dollar than investment in new censuses.

100 Years In Business

Will Thomas

BIZ-SKETCH — Charles White is carrying on the 100-year-old business founded by his grandfather.

The White Lumber Company originally was in San Francisco, but now is sited on Junipero Serra Boulevard in Daly City and has been since 1938. The oldest lumber firm in D.C., it carries a full line of lumber, hardware, fencing and other building materials.

On weekends, White and his wife, Virginia, can usually be found on their 32-foot Criscraft yacht, somewhere in San Francisco Bay.

An avid yachtsman, White is past commodore of the Corinthian Yacht Club, and two years ago moved from Daly City to Tiburon.

He is a native San Franciscan, attended St. Ignatius High School and was graduated from the University of San Francisco.

He is past president of the San Francisco Lumberman's Association.

White's business success is attributed to carrying of only quality merchandise and standing behind everything the firm sells.

He enjoys the contact with people and assists them with their building problems, which is one reason why he added a complete home-planning library to his business last year.

White's brothers, Anthony and Tom, operate the family's other lumber yard in San Francisco.

IN the Crocker Industrial Park, near Brisbane, construction of a new West Coast distribution center and sales office for the L. W. Gossard Company, one of the nation's leading manufacturers of women's garments, has started.

The 32,235-square foot building, being built by Associated Construction and Engineering Company of South San Francisco, will be the newest addition to Crocker Industrial Park, which now has 24 commercial buildings completed or in the process of construction.

South San Francisco Lives Up To Its 'Industrial City' Billing During '66

By DON GRIERSON

South San Francisco lived up to its billing as the Peninsula's "industrial city" during 1966, with 27 new production plants located in the city during the year.

The largest of the new industries, the Georgia-Pacific Corporation paper products plant, was built at an initial cost of more than $1 million.

Koret of California, makers of women's apparel, also established a $1 million plant, and the Owens-Corning Glass Company's new plant was constructed at a cost "in excess of a quarter of a million dollars."

Commenting on the banner year of industrial development, City Manager Eugene Aiello said the firms "decided to make South San Francisco their home because of our excellent industrial parks, reasonable tax rate, efficient government and warm co-operation from the community in general."

Additional industry was not the only sign of progress in South San Francisco during 1966.

The new public library, located on West Orange Street, gave the city the distinction of being the only municipality in the country with two main libraries.

With a staff of 17 full-time employees and the latest equipment, the facility doubles the city's library service.

Library Beauty

The new building is believed to be the only library anywhere with a built-in waterfall, and the interior design and acoustics are the finest available. The $700,000 facility, opened to the public several weeks ago, will be formally dedicated next month. The design won a recent state merit award.

The city's population also increased and was certified at 46,650 in October, an increase of 1,800 over the 1964 figure, the latest available.

Numerous improvements on city streets were completed, and a new southbound lane was added to Airport Boulevard under the Bayshore Freeway overpass.

More than 21 miles of streets were repaved.

Orange Memorial Park, Avalon Park and Siebacker Center were all renovated to some extent, along with the children's play lots.

Mayor Frank Bertucelli and the City Council adopted a "marina ordinance" last month, giving the city control in regulating use of Oyster Point Marina, which now houses over 200 boats.

The year 1966 also brought good news to residents on the west side of El Camino Real in the form of regular bus service. Residents of the area, long isolated by a lack of public transportation, now receive scheduled service from a private company.

Plans for the coming year include improvements to the Park Department Corporation Yard, and a new fire station in Westborough.

Work will begin on the Westborough Boulevard extension through the California Country Club. When completed, the extension will provide the first new east-west lateral route, and will eventually become an ocean-to-bay connecting road.

Work will continue on the Hickey Boulevard extension, and Spruce Avenue is slated for a major landscaping and refacing next year, and will be reconstructed as a divided boulevard.

The city's street resurfacing program will continue, and drainage improvements are scheduled for Hickey and Clay, Shaw Road and other locations.

New traffic signals will be installed on Spruce Avenue and at Linden and Hillside Boulevards.

The city is also preparing preliminary plans for an indoor community swimming pool.

South San Francisco's downtown merchants, like those of neighboring San Bruno, have become "image conscious" during the past few years, partly because of competition from the new shopping centers, and indications are that at least some work will be done on a rejuvenation program for the central district during 1967.

Scavenger War Highlight

By DON GRIERSON

The year 1966 has been an eventful one for the City of Brisbane, and a year of considerable progress — the so-far-futile fight against San Francisco scavengers notwithstanding.

Though still experiencing fragments of the chaos and confusion inevitable to any new city, Brisbane made greater strides in all areas of civic development in 1966 than in any other simple year since incorporation in 1961.

Last May, the city council officially adopted the first general plan for future development, and improvements in the city's first major street assessment district, San Bruno Avenue, were completed early in the year at a cost of $242,500.

New building through the month of November totaled $506,714.

Plans for the city's first major subdivision were approved.

The subdivision site consists of 38 acres, and will include a small commercial area in addition to residential development.

Preparing for future downtown development, the council took the first step toward a master lighting program in authorizing a preliminary study of the city's lighting problems.

Lower Glen Park Canyon was developed as a park and recreation area and re-named Richard A. Firth Memorial Park, honoring the city's first Parks, Beach and Recreation Commission chairman, who died during the year.

"We especially are proud of this park," Mayor Edward Schwenderlauf said, "because a great many of our citizens contributed their personal time and efforts toward its development."

Lawns have been planted in the park; sprinkler systems and parking facilities have been installed.

The Firemen's and Policemen's Wives Association has raised money for tables and benches for the picnic area, and these will be installed soon.

A tentative site for a second park has been selected, City Mgr. Lanier Brady said, and it will be developed "as time and money permit." The second park site is in Sierra Point Canyon.

On the political scene, a city election was held in April, and two new faces replaced James Williams and Ernest Conway, members of the original council.

The newly elected councilmen are John Bell and Robert McLennan.

Another new councilman, Dale E. With, was appointed when John Turner, the city's first mayor, resigned from the council in January because of illness.

Also among significant events of 1966 were the reorganization of Brisbane Chamber of Commerce in October, and the selection of Bill Del Chiarro as the new president.

The new chamber is composed exclusively of civic-minded representatives of Brisbane's business and industrial concerns.

Del Chiarro said current plans are to form a Jaycee chapter in the city to concentrate on non-commercial civic affairs.

The chamber conducted dedication ceremonies for the new post office building during the year, handled the "Miss Brisbane" pageant, and sponsored the "City of Star" float which represented Brisbane in the Fourth of July Parade in Redwood City.

The chamber also co-sponsored the city's Christmas lighting program, along with the Lions Club, and sponsored a Christmas party and community sing, complete with Santa Claus and free candy for the children.

Late President Said 'Folk Hero'

Samuel Chandler

In 1963 John F. Kennedy said, "A nation reveals itself not only by the men it produces but also by the men it honors, the men it remembers."

In the long history of heroes few men have entered the ranks of those who are honored and remembered faster than President Kennedy.

Within a year of his assassination, a newspaper with nationwide circulation, called him "our most romantic president." The eminent historian, William G. Carleton, observed that President Kennedy was becoming a folk hero; "One of those few in history who captures personal affection and poetic admiration, gratitude, awe, or reverence."

IN KENNEDY'S story, Dr. Carleton writes, the nation finds style, beauty, passion mingled with the mystic and the tragic. His life contains elements of "the poetry of living, the poetry of dying, the poetry primitive peoples in their mythology bestow on their gods and heroes."

According to a newspaper account thousands of "Kennedy" half-dollars have been contributed to a nationwide campaign to build a memorial in Arlington Cemetery around an eternal flame. Many more 50-cent pieces bearing President Kennedy's profile have been taken out of circulation by people who want a keepsake to remember the nation's most gallant chief executive.

At the heart of the President Kennedy story, is his romance with his lovely Jackie. Dr. Carleton writes, "And his name will be linked with that of his mate. For Mrs. Kennedy's beauty, style, spirit, and courage equaled his. In her, the tragedy of Dallas was matched with majesty."

From now on, it will be Jack and Jackie, just as through the ages, though in different context, there has been Abelard and Heloise.

The Kennedy cult is not without its detractors, however. There are reporters and historians who point out that the accomplishments of the Kennedy administration were few; that in one year, Lyndon Johnson pushed a program through a congress that had stymied John F. Kennedy for three.

Yet these observations fall on deaf ears. "This," observes the veteran journalist Gerald Johnson, "is an exercise in futility . . . Logical analysis will have about as much effect on his (Kennedy's) position in history, as Mrs. Partington's mop had upon the Atlantic tide."

THERE will be many quotations to answer the Kennedy detractors. One of them comes from the recent book, "The United States in the Postwar World," by James P. Warburg. "Unlike Truman and Eisenhower, Kennedy did not see the world in blacks and whites. In his unemotional, rational realism, he did not believe that any nations or peoples were inherently good or bad . . .

As early as 1954, he had written a magazine article decrying the myths which surrounded American foreign policy, such as the untouchability of national sovereignty or the belief that the democratic way of life would inevitably be the victor in any struggle with an alien power, or the idea that other nations owed homage and gratitude to the United States and all of its views at all times . . .

He referred to the Communist nations not as our enemies but as those who would make themselves our adversaries . . . It was in this spirit that Kennedy tackled the almost incredible collection of world problems that he inherited."

No doubt the Kennedy cult will seize upon the words that Thomas A. Barley wrote for his book "Presidential Greatness." "But he (President Kennedy) will be honored more for what he sought — the ideals of world peace and human brotherhood — than for what he actually accomplished."

THUS it goes — in our age a new hero has arisen to enter the select group of presidents who have been enshrined. The others Mr. Barley lists as: Washington, Lincoln, Jefferson, Wilson and F. D. Roosevelt. This places Kennedy a notch ahead of Jackson and T. R. Roosevelt in the Valhalla of American heroes.

'Les Girls' Lacks Pace, Style

By JACK RUSSELL

"Vive Les Girls" glittered into the Circle Star Theatre last week with more nudity, more tastefully displayed than on Half Moon Bay's world-famed beaches.

Unfortunately the show provoked a schizophrenic attitude: When the semi-nude models were on stage (after the first three minutes) you began to wish for the real entertainment to come on: when the real entertainment had been on for about five minutes you longed to see the girls again.

The reason, of course, lay in the pacing which was far off on opening night of the month-long run.

ONLY two numbers were not afflicted by this lack of pacing. One was the superb "Thousand and One Nights" scene with brilliant costumes by Jose Vinas. The lead dancer Jacquie Walters was sensual in her dance of the Seven Veils and the nudity looked completely at ease in the harem.

The other was the fully clothed but excellently choreographed second-half opener, Le Can Can. The dancing spotlighted the fine corps of dancers under choreographer Don Lewis. These young girls were generally prettier and far more appealing than the mannequins.

The mannequins, with two or three exceptions, seemed ill at ease in their roles as fatal flaw for a nude model. The look upon the face, (proud, but not haughty and above all with never a tint of boredom) is hard to develop even for the perfect Paris or Las Vegas girls. The Circle Star variety lacked this and also had less than perfect carriage despite their more prominent attributes.

ALSO marring the over-all effect was the lack of the opulent settings so marvelous in Las Vegas; the waterfalls, snow scenes, projecting platforms and props which add so much to the shows.

Sue Carson is the nominal star of the show and the pert lass is a charmer in a more intimate setting. She appeared confused by the vastness of the scene and the fact that she was forced to come on stage late in the second act without benefit of spotlights. She had one clever line of dialogue about nonconformity and also one good number in which she mimicked the song deliveries of Barbra Streisand, Pearl Bailey, Dinah Shore and Lena Horne. The number ran about seven minutes too long, however. Best of the comics were the Bernard Brothers from Oakland who have spent a decade or more in European music halls. They did a devastating take-off on Deborah Kerr and Yul Brynner with music from the "King and I."

Rola and Rolan were two Hollywood Palace style acrobats who showed flair and skill and whose timing was just right.

THE five Gimma brothers, on the other hand, were gross and clumsy in their routines which needed desperately the skills of the Wier Brothers to bring off.

Similarly the two main singers were not up to par although Christian Cardin had one good number and was everything that an American housewife believes a Frenchman should look like (After all, there had to be something for the girls in the audience).

France Arnell had microphone problems which hindered her song efforts.

The most tasteless number in the show was the Red-Hot Riding Hood caper which would be lousy in a dingy North Beach night club. It had no place in this show.

The show is bound to improve when the pacing picks up. Perhaps one or two more bits of talent should have been uncovered and one or two bodies covered.

Better Business

Bills, Bills, Bills: Grim Reminders

Lorene Beasley

Bills coming in will be grim reminders of Christmas 1966 to those who went overboard buying gifts and the debt adjuster who promises the end to all financial worries, will attract many who are facing the coming New Year burdened with debts.

What is a debt adjuster? A debt adjuster is an individual or company engaged in the business of pre-rating the income of a debtor to his creditors for a fee.

This fee may run as high as 35 per cent of his total bills. He is also known as a "pro-rater," "debt-pooler," debt manager or credit advisor. The debtor, under this plan, does not receive a cash loan. The money used to pay off his bills is his own.

MANY persons allured by the phrases "FORGET YOUR DEBTS," "LET US SHOW YOU HOW TO PAY OFF YOUR BILLS," enter into contracts believing that all sales credit organizations, banks, loan companies and others to whom they may be indebted to, will automatically agree to a debt adjuster's plan.

Some debt adjusters supposedly make arrangements with creditors to accept payments for less than the contracted amount. Creditors are under NO requirements to accept payments for less than the amount owed. Many business establishments actually refuse to accept payments made through debt adjustment firms.

People worried with money problems should first discuss their bills with creditors. Some arrangement may possibly be worked out which would be satisfactory to both parties. Many firms would rather work with the customer and his financial problems than with an adjustment firm. The main reason for this is that many times the adjuster's plan does not work out because of the failure to make prompt monthly payments or to pay off the entire amount as anticipated due to the fact that the debt adjuster's fees are taken out first.

If you make up your mind to use the services of a debt adjuster, deal only with a reputable concern. Get factual reports from your Better Business Bureau. Check with your creditors to see if they will agree with this method of paying off your debts.

Shop around for the best deal when seeking cash loans to pay off existing debts. Check the total amount of money that must be paid back BEFORE signing a contract!

Pacifica Council Delays Actions

Final discussions on vital Pacifica municipal matters are being pushed a fingertip's distance away from the city council table until a new manager is hired and on the job.

Selection of a civic center site from two proposals, discussion on a park division organizational study, as well as a possible new look at the city's building inspection makeup are among those topics.

The councilmen on Wednesday deferred further formal action on the subjects until they have chosen a successor to Karl Baldwin, who was the city's first city manager for nine years and now with the Federal Government in Vietnam.

Particularly in the civic center site selection discussion, but also in financing of a new police quarters, urgency was expressed by individual council members.

However, they agree the thinking and experience of the new city manager should be awaited, despite the need to push ahead with the projects.

A new city manager, discussed in late January, though it possibly could be mid-February before he is on the job.

Councilmen have had two weeks to ponder a report from a committee named in 1965 to study civic center site potential, but they want to talk in detail about the report with the committee. They said they will delay the discussion until a new city manager administrator is available to sit in a joint meeting of the council and the committee.

Mrs. Albert Haven, chairman of the civic center site study committee, said its members were divided equally on the two recommended sites: either the Rockaway Quarry at Mori's Point, or the existing city hall location.

The study of park division organizational responsibility topic was on this week's agenda, but was dismissed until a study session could be held with the city manager.

As a temporary measure, the council has approved a reorganization of the building inspection department to coincide with the resignation of the chief inspector.

Currently a separate unit, building inspection will become a division of the public works department, as would engineering and the public works.

A chief inspector will not be hired, but a new position of senior building inspector will be created.

Personnel within the engineering and building departments will be juggled until the new manager surveys the division's organization.

S.S.F. Model Contest Held

Mike Huonker, a member of Boy Scout Pack 360, sponsored by the St. Paul's Men's Club in South San Francisco, had his model judged the fastest and the best looking during a space derby that was held during the last pack meeting.

The six winners, of the 40 starters in the derby, were Edward Ranuio, first; Charlie Sparks, second; Reid Tanaka, third; Frank Juadrelli, fourth, and Lewis Harmon, fifth place.

The beer-raiding "team" got away when two "lookouts" decoyed Harold L. Rogers and Thomas J. LaFlesh, two employees away from the main group, allowing them to flee. San Bruno police said the youths sawed out a section of the shed wall, removed the board and cut out a 12-inch by 24-inch section of heavy wire, then either crawled into the shed, or reached through into the compound to get the bottles.

Pardon For D.C. Man

A Daly City man is among 51 persons granted pardons, or commutations to time served, by Governor Brown.

He is Henry Jose Montano, convicted in 1962 in San Francisco for narcotics. None of the 51 persons is now in prison, since they were freed earlier after being pronounced rehabilitated.

Also on the list is Beverly Price, of Fresno, convicted in 1961 in San Mateo for bad checks.

HEAVY

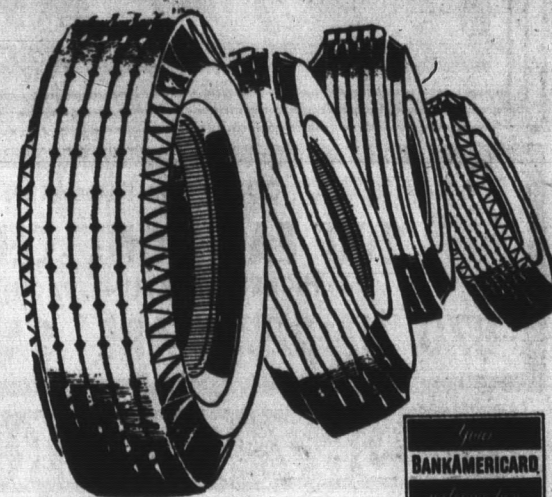

Seal pups weigh 60 to 70 pounds at birth. They feed on milk with up to 50 percent butterfat, and gain three to four pounds daily. Fluffy tan hair protects the babies from the ice.

Refreshing Dessert For Pork Dinner

Here's a refreshing cooling dessert to serve to company after a hearty meal. Pineapple-Orange Mallow Whip, developed and tested by home economists, is made with marshmallows, orange-flavored gelatin, sections, bananas, whipping cream and convenient Pineapple-Orange fruit ade.

Melt this fluffy dessert in the morning and pour into a vanilla wafer crust. At serving time, simply cut into squares and garnish with vanilla wafers and a dollop of whipped cream.

Pineapple-Orange Mallow Whip
(Makes 12 servings)

- 3 cups pineapple-Orange fruit ade
- 1 package (6 oz.) orange flavored gelatin
- 2 cups diced orange sections
- 2 bananas, sliced
- 1 cup whipping cream, whipped
- Vanilla Wafers
- Whipped cream

Melt marshmallows in pineapple-Orange ade over low heat, stirring constantly. Add gelatin; stir until dissolved. Chill until slightly thickened. Beat orange mixture until frothy. Combine oranges and bananas; mix lightly. Fold into orange mixture. Fold in whipped cream. Arrange vanilla wafers on bottom of a 12x7x2-inch pan. Spoon gelatin mixture over wafers. Chill until firm. Cut into servings. Garnish each serving with a vanilla wafer and whipped cream.

Cranberries Will Color A Pot Roast

It's the season for cranberries as well as spices! Why not use them with pot-roast to introduce a different recipe to your family?

For a pot-roast, it's necessary to use only one-half cup of water with part of the cranberries during braising. The remaining one-third cup water is used for cooking the cranberries which are added later to the spicy gravy.

CRANBERRY POT ROAST

- 3 to 4 pound beef arm or blade pot-roast
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/2 teaspoon ground cloves
- 3 tablespoons sugar
- 2 cups cranberries
- 1/2 cup water
- 1-1/2 cup water
- 1-3 cup sugar
- Flour

Brown pot-roast in its own fat. Pour off drippings. Combine salt, pepper, cinnamon, cloves and 3 tablespoons sugar. Sprinkle mixture over pot-roast. Place 1 cup cranberries around pot-roast. Pour 1/2 cup water over all. Cover tightly and cook slowly 3 to 3 1/2 hours or until meat is tender. Cook remaining 1 cup cranberries in 1/2 cup water until cranberry skins pop. Add 1-3 cup sugar and cook until sugar dissolves. Remove pot-roast to heated serving platter. Thicken cooking liquid with flour. Stir cranberry sauce into gravy. 6 to 8 servings.

Roast Pork Dish Always Is in Style

ROAST PORK WITH POTATOES AND ONIONS
Rib side pork loin, about 4 pounds

Seasoning salt
Very small potatoes (pared) and similar-size onions (peeled)

Place pork, fat side up, on a rack in a shallow roasting pan. Rub top surface with seasoning salt, roast in a slow (325 degrees) oven until meat thermometer registers 185 degrees — about 3 hours. About 1 1/2 hours before meat is ready, place potatoes and onions in roasting pan; baste occasionally with drippings in pan and turn to prevent sticking and brown evenly.

Southern Pudding Brings Fresh Outlook for Cook

Many a cook tires of serving the usual casserole of baked beans or macaroni and cheese with baked ham.

To make a switch in this good but time-tired combination, we've been collecting ham go-alongs. Here, then, is Southern Pudding — the latest item on the list. It calls for cooked rice, canned cream-style corn, grated cheddar cheese, eggs and seasonings, and our tasters fully approved the combination.

A special point in its favor: after it goes into the oven a hostess can forget about it. You can, of course, serve Southern Pudding with baked ham the first time the meat goes around. But it's also splendid to offer with a platter of the sliced leftover ham.

By the way, here are a few other good rice-and-corn combinations that may interest you.

Quick soup — canned cream-style corn, milk, cooked rice, salt and lots of freshly ground pepper.

Different salad — canned whole-kernel corn teamed with cooked rice, finely diced celery, minced parsley, chopped pimiento and French dressing.

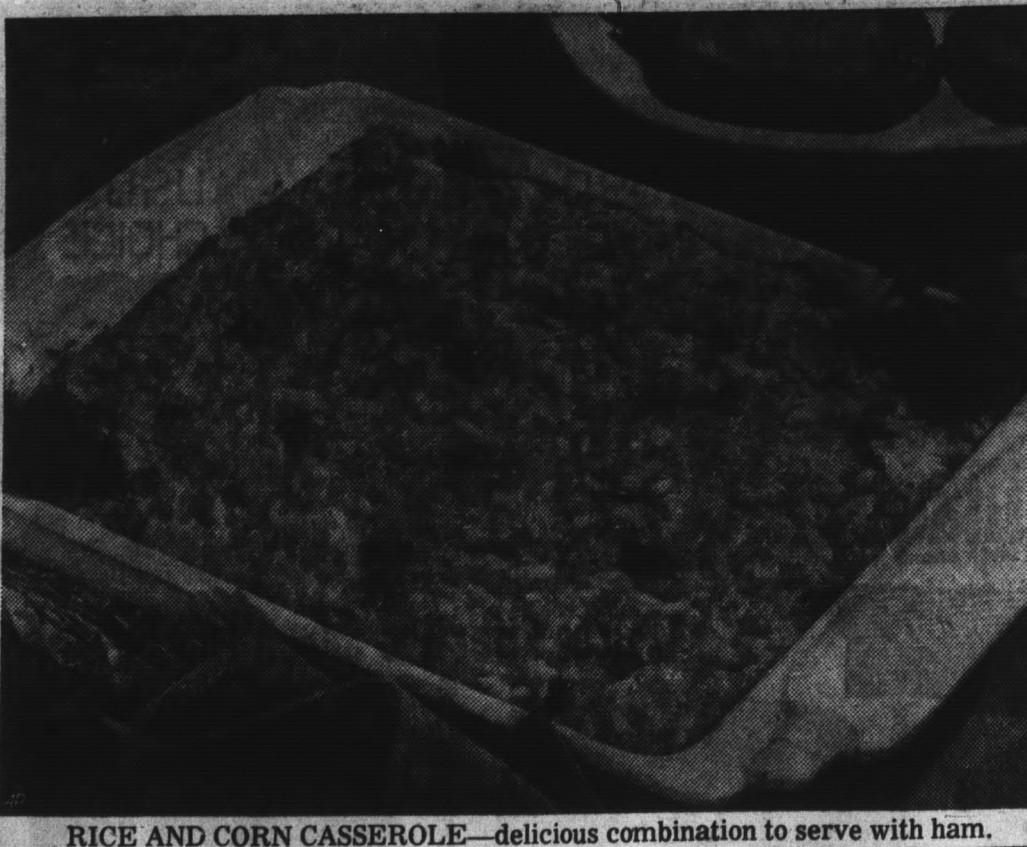

Muffin mixup — canned whole-kernel corn and cooked rice added to standard muffin batter.

SOUTHERN PUDDING
2 large eggs
2 cups cooked rice (see Note)
1 cup (1/2 pound) grated cheddar cheese
1 can (1 pound, 1 ounce) cream-style golden corn

1/2 cup minced onion
1/2 cup finely chopped green pepper
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1/2 teaspoon white pepper

In a large mixing bowl, beat the eggs until yolks and whites are combined. With a fork, stir in the rice, cheese, corn, onion, green pepper, salt and white pepper; mix lightly but thoroughly. Turn into a buttered oblong ovenproof 1 1/2-quart baking dish (10 by 6 by 1 1/2 inches). Bake in a moderate (350 degrees) oven for 45 minutes to 1 hour.

Note: To prepare the rice for this recipe, we used converted-type rice and cooked it according to the basic directions on the package for "dry" rice, omitting salt.

Have Seconds Ready For Cheese Cake

There are many, many recipes for cheese cake. Some are light and airy... some are rich and solid... some can be made in a jiffy... some take more time.

Cheese cake is one dessert that is strictly a "personal" affair. If you are an advocate of cheese cake, be sure to try this recipe for Creamy Cheese Cake, developed by home economists.

Creamy Cheese Cake has a crisp graham crust, rich solid filling. It should be served chilled and in small pieces. (The family can (and will) always ask for seconds).

CREAMY CHEESE CAKE
(Serves 9-10)
Crust

- 16 graham crackers, rolled fine
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1/4 cup melted butter
- Mix well and pat into 9-inch pie pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 5 minutes or until set.

Filling
2 8-ounce packages cream cheese

- 1/2 cup sugar
- 3 eggs
- 1/2 teaspoon vanilla
- Mix well and pour into cooled pie shell. Bake 20 minutes at 375 degrees. Cool 15 minutes.

Topping
1 pint dairy sour cream
1/4 cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
Mix well and pour over cheese mixture. Bake at 475 degrees for 10 minutes. Cool on baking rack.

Walnut Torte An Excellent Dessert Item

This recipe makes an elegant dessert offering.

Roast Beef
Horseradish Sauce
Green Peas
Green Salad
Walnut Torte
Beverage

WALNUT TORTE

- 5 whole eggs
- 1 egg white
- Pinch of salt
- 1 cup sugar
- 8 ounces walnut meats, finely ground in blender or chopper

Line the greased bottom of two round 9-inch layer-cake pans with waxpaper. Grease paper. Separate whole eggs putting whites (along with the 1 extra egg white) in a medium bowl and the yolks in a large bowl. Beat the 6 whites with the salt until foamy, gradually beat in about half the sugar until very stiff and whites do not move when bowl is tipped. Without washing beater, beat egg yolks and remaining sugar until thick and ivory color. Fold in walnuts, then meringue. Turn into prepared pans. Bake in a moderate (350 degrees) oven until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean — about 35 to 40 minutes; layers will puff then go down at end of baking time. Place pans on wire rack to cool. Loosen sides and turn out, remove paper. Put layers together and frost top and sides of torte with whipped cream sweetened with sugar and flavored with unsweetened cocoa and vanilla. Refrigerate until serving time.

QUICK WALNUT COBBLER

Prepare package honey-bran muffin mix as directed, stirring in 1/4 cup chopped California walnuts; spoon over canned cherry pie filling in 8-inch square baking dish. Sprinkle with 1/4 cup each of brown sugar and chopped California walnuts. Bake at 400 degrees about 30 minutes; cover top of cobbler loosely with foil during last 10 minutes if browning too much. Makes eight servings.

CHOCOLATE DIPSYDOS —Delectable butter cookies are dipped into a glaze made with morsels of semi-sweet chocolate.

An Easy-to-Make Recipe For Delectable Cookies

Now that the making of all those complicated holiday dishes is over with, you may find it pleasant to be reminded that one of the best of all cookie recipes takes only a minimum of ingredients and is so easy to prepare that even the youngest cook can manage it.

Here then is the recipe for a simple but delectable cookie with a chocolate glaze, appropriate for each and every occasion during the whole year. And don't let that word glaze scare you—it's concocted easily by melting a cup of semi-sweet chocolate morsels with a teaspoon of shortening. This is the kind of chocolate that enlivens popular drop cookies, favorite marshmallow fudge and many other delicious desserts.

CHOCOLATE DIPSYDOS
1 cup soft butter
1 cup sifted confectioners sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups sifted regular flour
Chocolate Glaze (see below)
Finely chopped walnuts

In a medium mixing bowl, beat together until light and fluffy the butter, confectioners sugar and vanilla. With a spoon, gradually blend in the flour. Chill, if necessary to have dough firm enough for shaping. With palms of hands, form into 1-inch balls or 1½-inch logs. Place, a few inches apart, on ungreased cookie sheets. With palms, slightly flatten cookie balls. Bake in a moderate (350 degrees) oven until delicately browned—about 15 minutes. With spatula, remove to wire rack to cool. (Makes 3 dozen).

To apply the Chocolate Glaze: Dip the tops of the round cookies into the glaze or use a small spatula to cover tops generously with the glaze; dip tops of cookies into nuts or sprinkle them with nuts. Dip ends of cookie logs into glaze and then into nuts. Place cookies on wax paper or a tray to set. Store in tightly covered container.

Note: In testing this recipe, we had a little of the glaze leftover; we used it to coat the bottoms of some of the round cookies and then dipped again in nuts. Double chocolate flavor!

CHOCOLATE GLAZE
1 package (6 ounces) semi-sweet chocolate pieces (1 cup)
1 teaspoon shortening

In a small wide-bottom bowl set over hot (not boiling) water, melt the chocolate and shortening; stir to blend. Remove from heat and water. Use at once as directed in Chocolate Dipsydos recipe.

Dried Beef Is Tasty In A Casserole

Forgotten how nice dried beef can taste? Try it again in this casserole.

TASTY DRIED BEEF CASSEROLE
Yield: 4 servings

¾ ounce jar dried beef
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
2 tablespoons finely chopped green pepper
1½-ounce can condensed cream of chicken soup
¾ cup milk
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon paprika
4 ounces macaroni (1¼ cup, uncooked)
½ cup shredded sharp Cheddar cheese

Melt butter in a saucepan. Add onion and green pepper and cook until tender, about 5 minutes. Cut dried beef with scissors into small pieces. Add to onion mixture and continue cooking until beef is lightly browned. Stir in soup, milk, pepper, and paprika. Heat to boiling. Cook macaroni as directed on package, using unsalted water. Drain, rinse with cold water, and drain again. Combine macaroni with dried beef sauce. Pour into a 1½-quart casserole. Sprinkle with cheese. Bake uncovered in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 20 to 30 minutes.

This Fluffy Raspberry Pie Is Enjoyable

You can enjoy this pie during the holidays, or save the recipe for St. Valentine's Day.

FLUFFY RASPBERRY PIE
Yield: 9-inch pie

¾ cup shortening
2 cups sifted flour
1¼ teaspoons salt
3 to 4 tablespoons cold water
12 ounces cream cheese
½ cup sugar
2 eggs
1 cup dairy sour cream
2 packages (10 ounces each) frozen raspberries, thawed
5 teaspoons cornstarch
1 cup whipping cream

Sift flour with salt into a bowl. Cut in shortening, using a pastry blender or fork, until the mixture is the consistency of corn meal and small peas. Sprinkle water, a little at a time, over different parts of flour mixture. Toss together lightly with a fork. Use as little water as possible, just enough to moisten dough. Place dough on waxed paper. Knead 3 times.

Press gently with the paper into a ball. Let stand at room temperature for 15 to 20 minutes. Lightly flour pastry cloth or board and covered rolling pin. Roll dough into circle ¾ inch thick. Fold dough over rolling pin and lift onto pan. Fit pastry into pan. Do not stretch pastry. Fold edge of pastry under and make a high fluted edge.

Blend together cream cheese, sugar, and eggs. Beat until smooth. Pour into pie shell. Bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees) 30 minutes or until a knife inserted halfway between the center and the edge of the filling comes out clean. Remove from oven and cool. Spread top of cooled pie with sour cream. Refrigerate 1 hour.

Meanwhile, place raspberries and cornstarch in a saucepan. Cook, stirring occasionally, until raspberries are thickened. Cool to room temperature. Whip cream. Fold into cooled raspberries. Spoon on top of pie. Refrigerate several hours or overnight.

Into a mixing bowl, sift together the flour, salt and baking soda. Add the soft butter, sugar, egg and vanilla. Beat until smooth—about 2 minutes. Stir in chocolate pieces and oats. Divide dough into 2 parts. Shape each part to form a 9-inch roll. Wrap rolls in plastic wrap and chill several hours or overnight. With a sharp knife, cut in ¼-inch slices. Place several inches apart on ungreased cookie sheets — cookies will spread. Bake in moderate (375 degrees) oven 10 to 12 minutes. Makes 3 dozen.

Combine both packets graham cracker crumbs, sugar and melted butter. Press firmly against sides and bottom of an 8-inch spring-form pan. Refrigerate crust for 15 minutes. Pour 3 cups cold milk into mixing bowl. Stir in instant coffee. Add 2 envelopes chocolate-flavor pie filling and beat at medium speed with electric mixer or rotary beater for 3 minutes, occasionally scraping sides of bowl. Fold in ½ of the whipped cream. Pour remaining 2-3 cup of milk into mixing bowl. Add 2 envelopes topping. Beat at high speed 3 to 4 minutes, or until soft peaks form. Fold in remaining whipped cream. Starting with filling mixture, pour alternate layers of filling and topping mixtures into prepared spring-form pan, ending with topping. Refrigerate 3 to 6 hours or overnight before serving. Cow Palace Canine Show

An all-time entry high of 2,384 for the upcoming fifty-seventh annual Golden Gate Kennel Club Dog Show (scheduled January 14-15) at the Cow Palace was announced today by Stan Hanson of the sponsoring club.

For the first time in its 57-year history, entries were limited to winners of blue ribbons in an American Kennel Club show, and yet the huge entry list came in — from many distant parts of the United States.

It is estimated that one third of the entries (800 or more dogs) are already champions, while many more are near champions. "It is the finest array of dogs we have ever had in the San Francisco show," said Hanson.

Both the north and south halls will be used for the display of the dogs, and the main arena will be used for the judging and for the special entertainment. Best-dog-in-show judging is scheduled for Sunday evening.

THE BEST NEW YEAR'S EVE PARTY in Pacifica Saturday night was probably this nonalcoholic night club outing at Nick Gust's Rockaway Beach Turtle Restaurant. Open to youths between 16 and 20, the "night club" was a lively scene as 300 teen-agers danced into the wee hours to the music of four rock and roll bands. In the best night club fashion, the youthful patrons were dressed for the occasion with boys wearing mandatory neckties and the girls in elegant gowns and dressy sports attire. The teen night club idea was conceived and promoted by high school student Chuck Gust, son of the restaurant owner. Ten adult chaperones and two policemen were on hand to keep order, but reports are that they were not needed, and the "night club crowd" was very well behaved. (Post Photo)

THESE PACIFICA teen-agers are chic members of the new "sub-deb night club set" inaugurated New Year's Eve with a ball at Nick Gust's Turtle Restaurant at Rockaway Beach. The club was opened to youths between 16 and 20 New Year's Eve, with four rock 'n roll bands providing music into the wee hours. The "night clubbers" drank soft drinks, and generally behaved in an "exemplary manner," according to adult chaperones. Dressed up for their first teen night club outing here are Lynda Luce, left, and Patty Cottrell. (Post Photo)

Coast Talks On Awareness

An educational series, "Seven Steps to Awareness," will be presented at the Church of Good Shepherd in Pacifica, starting January 12.

Speakers will include Frank Quinn of the San Francisco Council for Civic Unity, Herman Gallegos, director of the Hunter's Point Youth Opportunity Center, Judge Joseph Kennedy of the San Francisco municipal court, Msgr. John Scanlon and Sister Margaret of the San Francisco Archdiocese.

The one-hour public programs will start at 7:30 p.m.

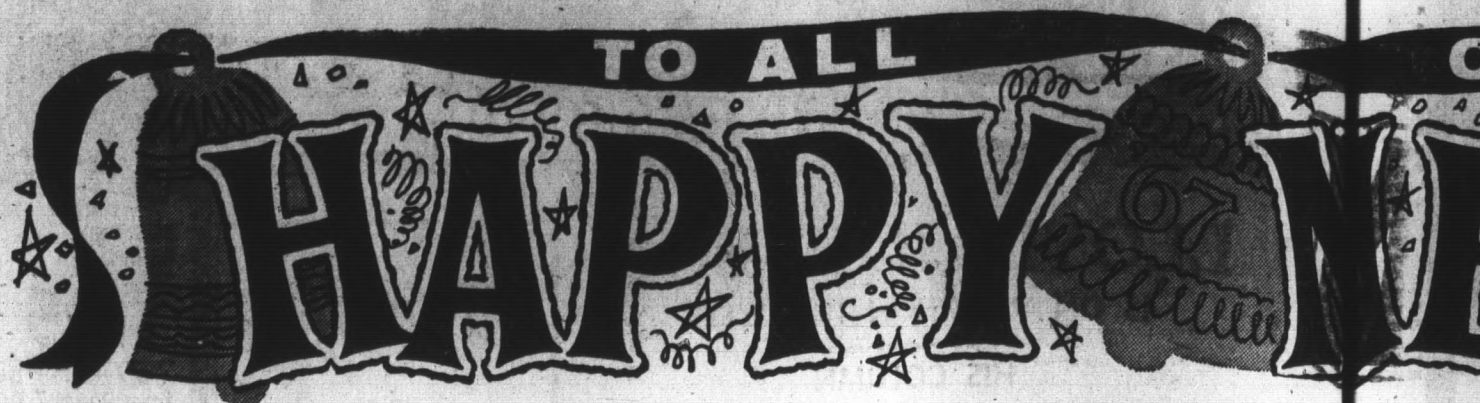

Among the topics to be discussed are The Social Teachers of the Catholic Church, Moral and Sociological Aspects of Prejudice, Anti-Poverty and Employment, Education and Youth, and Minority Problems in Housing.

Panel discussions and open-audience participation will round out the seven steps, a spokesman for the church added.

Followup programs will feature talks on the late Pope John's encyclicals, Mater et Magistra and Pacem in Terris, as well as Social Justice in Agriculture, Redevelopment and Civil Rights—1966.
